Biographical / Historical

Elmer MacRae (1875-1953) was a New York and Connecticut-based painter and served as treasurer of the Association of American Painters and Sculptors when the association organized the 1913 Armory Show.

Elmer Livingston MacRae was born in New York City in 1875. In the late 1890s, MacRae summered in an artist's community in Cos Cob, Connecticut, where he met his wife Emma Constant Holley. He moved full time to Cos Cob in 1899. MacRae became active in the Pastellists group. He was affiliated with the Macbeth and Madison Galleries in New York, where he was on friendly terms with fellow painters Jerome Myers and Walt Kuhn. In 1911, MacRae became a member of the Association of American Painters and Sculptors (AAPS), Inc. From 1912 to 1916, MacRae served as Treasurer of the AAPS, the organization which organized the seminal 1913 Armory Show exhibition of modern American and European art. Formally titled the International Exhibition of Modern Art, the exhibition introduced many Americans to modern art for the first time. The Armory Show began at New York City's 69th Street Armory, then continued on to the Art Institute of Chicago, and Boston's Copley Society of Art. The latter venue did not include the American art due to space constraints.

Scope and Contents

The Elmer Livingston MacRae papers related to the Association of American Painters and Sculptors, Inc., (AAPS) measure 1.8 linear feet and date from 1899 to circa 2013, with the bulk of the material dating from 1912-1916. Elmer Livingston MacRae served as Treasurer of the AAPS when the association organized the International Exhibition of Modern Art, also known as the Armory Show of 1913. The bulk of this collection concerns MacRae's involvement with the AAPS and the Armory Show and includes administrative files, correspondence, exhibition files, financial records, printed materials, and artifacts.

Biographical material includes an old collection inventory from the Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden, two annotated appointment books, and a small handbook with notes.

Correspondence consists of letters addressed to Elmer MacRae from AAPS members such as Arthur B. Davies, Walt Kuhn, and Walter Pach, as well as other various artists, dealers, lenders, and buyers. Most letters concern AAPS business and organizing the Armory Show.

AAPS administration records include the organization's constitution, letterhead, meeting minutes, a report, and a membership list.

The Armory Show exhibition tour files consist of materials related to openings in Chicago and Boston. Materials include lists that track sales of tickets and pamphlets, insurance lists, a contract, an art inventory, and other items.

Financial records consist of AAPS and exhibition expenses in the form of sales lists of artwork, payroll information, shipping and transportation invoices, bills, rescinded dues, cashiers' journals, ledgers, a receipt book, and a checkbook.

Printed material includes copies of Armory Show exhibition catalogs, AAPS pamphlets, newspapers, magazines, clippings, postcards, and a poster.

Artifacts consist of AAPS memorabilia from the exhibition. There are button pins, calling cards, event invitations, mailing cards, signs, tickets, and other miscellany.

Series 2: Correspondence, 1958, 1911-1915

0.2 Linear feet (Box 1)

This series consists of Association of American Painters and Sculptors (AAPS) correspondence addressed to Elmer MacRae in his capacity as the organization treasurer from other AAPS members such as Arthur B. Davies, Walt Kuhn, and Walter Pach; various artists such as Marcel Duchamp, Robert Henri, and Wilhelm Lehmbruck; dealers and lenders, usually referring to galleries; and buyers, including private buyers and museums. Most of the incoming correspondence is about organizing and preparing for the International Exhibition of Modern Art or Armory Show (1913).

The material in this series is grouped by category of correspondent such as AAPS members, artists, dealers and lenders, and buyers. The correspondence is arranged alphabetically within those groupings. Correspondents with three or more letters have their own folder, whereas correspondents with only one or two letters are in general alphabetical files.

This series has been digitized in its entirety.

Series 4: Armory Show Tour Files, 1913

0.1 Linear feet (Box 1)

This series consists of materials related to the International Exhibition of Modern Art of 1913, also known as the Armory Show, as it traveled to Chicago and Boston after initially debuting in New York City. There is a range of materials from the exhibition's tour including a contract and settlement with the Art Institute of Chicago, an art inventory, insurance lists, a subcommittee report, and lists tracking sales of tickets, postcards, and pamphlets.

The material in this series is separated by city - Chicago and Boston, then arranged alphabetically by document type within those two groupings.

This series has been fully digitized.

Series 5: Financial Records, 1912-1916

0.5 Linear feet (Box 1)

Financial records related to the Association of American Painters and Sculptors (AAPS) operating expenses and the Armory Show include sales lists of artwork, receipts, invoices, payroll, shipping and transportation invoices, rescinded dues, four cashier's journals, two ledgers, a receipt book, a checkbook, and bills for office supplies, printing, publicity, and photography, among other things. A lot of the materials, such as the "Lexington File" bills, are directly related to the exhibition, but a lot of the general AAPS financial and business records are also scattered throughout the series.

This series is arranged alphabetically by document type, also the contents of several folders - such as different kinds of bills and invoices - are often alphabetical by vendor as a reflection of the original order upon receipt at the archives.

The bulk of this series has been digitized, except for blank pages of bound volumes such as ledgers, cashiers' journals, checkbooks, and so forth.

Series 6: Printed Material, 1911-1959

0.6 Linear feet (Box 2, OV 4-5)

This series includes multiple copies of catalogs for the Armory Show in New York, Boston, and Chicago, in addition to a few catalogs for retrospective exhibitions about the Armory Show that happened in later years. There are also pamphlets published by the Association of American Painters and Sculptors (AAPS) which contain essays that were created in conjunction with the exhibition. Other materials are newspapers, magazines, clippings, postcards, and one poster. The bulk of the printed material is on the subject of the AAPS or the exhibition.

The exhibition catalogs are grouped together at the beginning of the series along with other magazines and publications about the exhibit. The rest of the material is arranged alphabetically by document type.

The bulk of this collection has been digitized, except for the pamphlets and duplicates. The International Exhibition of Modern Art pamphlets were already scanned as part of the Walter Kuhn, Kuhn family, and Armory Show records. In some cases, newspapers, magazines, and other publications have had their covers, title pages, and relevant pages scanned.
