Identifier:	AAA.sculguil
Date:	1936-1979
Extent:	5.7 Linear feet
Creator:	Sculptors Guild (New York, N.Y.)
Language:	English .
Summary:	The records of the Sculptors Guild measure 5.7 linear feet, date from 1936-1979, and document the history of this non-profit artist organization from its inception in 1937 to the late 1970s. The records contain correspondence and minutes documenting the activities of the Guild's various committees, legal and financial records, artist files for Guild members, exhibition files, printed material, scrapbooks and photographs.

Administrative Information

Provenance

The Sculptors Guild records were donated by the Sculptors Guild in 1966, 1979, and 1991 and were microfilmed on Reels D262-D266A and 5908-5910 in the order in which they were received.

Alternative Forms Available

Portions of the collection are available on 35 mm microfilm reels D262-D266A and 5908-5910 at the Archives of American Art offices and through interlibrary loan. Researchers should note that the arrangement of the material described in the container inventory does not reflect the arrangement of the collection on microfilm, however, when known, microfilm reel and frame numbers have been noted.

Processing Information

The collection was processed by Jean Fitzgerald and Stephanie Ashley in 2005 and 2006.

Preferred Citation

Historical Note

The Sculptors Guild was founded in New York City in 1937 by a group of artists interested in the promotion of contemporary sculpture in a wide variety of styles through free group exhibitions and educational programs. Membership in the Guild was obtainable only by invitation, based on a sculptor's creative ability and professional standing.

The Guild held annual exhibitions of contemporary sculpture in locations such as the terrace of the International Building at Rockefeller Plaza, Bryant Park, the New York Botanical Gardens, and perhaps most notably at Lever House, marking the introduction of the exhibition of professional art in corporate lobbies. The Guild frequently combined demonstrations and lectures with its exhibitions. Many traveling exhibitions circulated under the auspices of the American Federation of Arts, the Carnegie Corporation, and the Board of Education of the City of New York. The Guild also held several outdoor exhibitions in various other locations in New York City, and at the New York World's Fair in 1939-1940.

Between 1937 and 1964 the Sculptors Guild was supported by membership dues, a 30 percent commission taken on sales of sculpture at annual exhibitions and private funding. In the mid-1960s the Guild recognized the need for increased funding from foundations and established the Friends of the Sculptors Guild to this end.

The Sculptors Guild was headquartered at various New York locations throughout its history. From 1937-1938, it was located at 52 West 8th Street, moving in early 1939 to 37 East 4th Street. Later that year the Guild moved again, to 96 Fifth Avenue, where it stayed for 25 years. In 1966 the Guild moved to 106 West 16th Street and, in the following year, to 797 Madison Avenue. In 1991 the Guild was located at 35 East 85th Street. The Sculptors Guild is still in operation in 2005 and is located at the Soho Building, 110 Greene Street, New York City.

Scope and Content Note

The records of the Sculptors Guild measure 5.7 linear feet, date from 1936-1979, and document the history of this non-profit artist organization from its inception in 1937 to the late 1970s. The records contain correspondence and minutes documenting the activities of the Guild's various committees, legal and financial records, artist files for Guild members, exhibition files, printed material, scrapbooks and photographs.

The early years of the Guild's history, from 1938-1948, are particularly well documented in business records including detailed meeting minutes of the executive board, membership and nominating committees, and exhibition and cultural committees. Correspondence files provide a good overview of the development of Guild programs and changes within the organization from 1937-1976, although coverage of events from the late 1940s to the mid 1960s is relatively sparse. Researchers should consult subseries 1.2: Correspondence by Subject, for records relating to this period.

Artist files provide biographical information for and photographs of many of the Guild's members. Scrapbooks, exhibition files and printed material document the founding of the Guild and its exhibitions from the late 1930s to the 1970s. The collection also contains photographs of Guild members, officers and many of its exhibitions.

Series 1: Correspondence, 1937-1976

(Boxes 1, 9, OV 10; 1.0 linear foot)

This series contains correspondence between members of the Sculptors Guild and documents the Guild's interactions with museums, galleries, patrons and honorary sponsors. The series provides a good overview of program developments and documents issues such as funding and the decision to seek increased donations from foundations in the mid-1960s with the formation of Friends of the Sculptors Guild. Notable correspondents include Juliana Force, Leon Kroll, Hugo Robus, William Talbot, and William Zorach.

The series is arranged as 2 subseries:

- 1.1: Chronological Correspondence, 1937-1976
- 1.2: Correspondence by Subject, 1938-1961

Series 2: Business Records, 1936-1974

(Boxes 2-3; 1.6 linear feet)

The Guild's business records document the founding and early history of the Guild and its continued operation through the minutes of the organization's various committees, membership records, publicity files, and financial and legal records.

This series is arranged as 4 subseries:

- 2.1: Minutes and Membership, 1936-1974
- 2.2: Committee Files, 1938-1956
- 2.3: Publicity Files, 1939-1960
- 2.4: Financial and Legal Records, 1938-1972

2.1: Minutes and Membership, 1936-1974

This subseries documents membership in the Guild through biographical accounts of members, membership lists and the minutes of meetings relating to fund-raising and the membership recruiting activities of the organization.

Also found here are minutes of the Guild's various committees. One set of minutes for October 1938-May 1941 has been left in its original collation although it is duplicated elsewhere in the subseries. Minutes include those for the executive board meetings, general membership and membership admission meetings, and meetings of the ways and means committee, exhibition committee, cultural committee, grounds and publicity committee, and nominating committee.

The founding and early history of the Guild is documented in a statement of aims and purposes, correspondence relating to incorporation, and a 1940 typescript of the history of the Sculptors Guild. Reorganization correspondence deals with changes to membership requirements and reorganizations within the Guild.

Box 2, Folder 25	Typescript History of the Sculptors Guild, 1940 (Reel D266A: 157-159)

2.2: Committee Files, 1938-1956

This subseries documents the activities of the Cultural Committee and the Exhibition Committee. Minutes for these two committees have been left with the Guild's other minutes in 2.1: Minutes and Membership, in order to retain their context as business records of the Guild as a whole.

Cultural committee files document the activities of the book committee in addition to correspondence including letters from José DeCreeft, Chaim Gross, Paul Manship, and Maurice Sterne.

Exhibition committee files contain correspondence including a letter from David Smith, copyright records, notes, a guest book, photographs, and printed material concerning exhibitions with which the Sculptors Guild was involved. Outdoor exhibition photographs include four photographs of Helen Keller visiting an exhibition accompanied by William Zorach, and photographs of singer Dusolina Giannini, actress Aline MacMahon, and artists Mark Friedman, Hugo Robus, Concetta Scaravaglione, and Louis Slobodkin.

Miscellaneous exhibition files contain correspondence, notes, printed material, photographs and several unidentified sketches. Additional records documenting Sculptors Guild exhibitions can be found in Series 4: Exhibition Files.
