Biographical Note

Dr. G. Howard White, Jr., the principal photographer of the collection, was born at 'Crednall' in Middleburg, Virginia. Many of the people depicted in the photographs of homesteads (such as 'Argyle' in Ellicott City, Maryland) are related to the White family.

Dr. Gustav Adolph Liebig photographed other images in the White Collection. He lived on an estate known as 'Tanglewood,' believed to be located across the street from the Whites in Catonsville, Maryland. (This may account for why Dr. White ended up with images by Dr. Liebig in his collection.) The Liebig family also features prominently in the White Collection.

Scope and Contents

The Dr. G. Howard White, Jr. Collection includes (203) photographic images dated c. 1890s-1920s taken by amateur photographers Dr. G. Howard White, Jr. and Dr. Gustav Adolph Liebig. It includes a diverse sampling of scenes, from family gatherings, homes, and recreational outings to train depots and railway lines, mill and factory workers, domestic servants, livestock, barns and other agricultural and industrial scenes of everyday life. The majority of the photographs were taken in Catonsville, Maryland, and Virginia; many show the homes (both exterior and interior shots) of the White, Dulany, Liebig and Lemmon families. Some show the Princeton University campus in New Jersey. The collection as a whole is a rich sampling of domestic, recreational, and working life in the mid-Atlantic region at the turn of the twentieth century.

The folder includes worksheets and historical information about the Liebig enterprises.

Liebig Factory related holdings consist of 1 folder (3 glass negatives)

Dr. Gustav A. Liebig, Sr., was involved with two industrial enterprises in the Baltimore area, the Patapsco Chemical Works and the Patapsco Guano Company. One or both may be pictured in these images. The photographs were probably all taken by his son, Dr. Gustav A. Liebig, Jr., although only one image has been confirmed as such.

MD134: Catonsville -- White Garden

The folder includes worksheets and information about the White family.

White Garden related holdings consist of 1 folder (14 glass negatives)

The Catonsville, Maryland, home of George Howard White and his family, including Dr. G. Howard White, Jr., was located on Prospect Avenue near both the Catonsville Short Line and Tanglewood, the home of Dr. Gustav A. Liebig and family (MD223). The images in this series document the house and its surrounding grounds as well as visitors to the home. They were probably taken by Dr. G. Howard White, Jr., although there is no firm documentation to that effect.

Because the writing on the sleeve is illegible there can be only a tentative identification of Jackson's first name as Wesley. A young man named Jackson, possibly the same one, also appears in image VA159039. Although MD134002 is placed organizationally with others of the White home and garden in Catonsville, because of the appearance of its architectural details it is possible that it was taken at a different location.

Liebig, Gustav A. Dr, 1824-1893, Former owner

Liebig, Sarah Elizabeth Holland, d. 1902, Former owner

Gott, Jackson Coale, 1829-1909, Architect

The folder includes worksheets, photocopied maps of the area around Tanglewood, biographical and historical information about Tanglewood and the Liebig family, photocopies of images, and other information.

Tanglewood related holdings consist of 1 folder (49 glass negatives)

Located in Catonsville, Maryland, Tanglewood was the home of analytical chemist and industrialist Dr. Gustav A. Liebig, his wife Sarah Elizabeth Holland Liebig, and their family. Built in 1886 in the Queen Anne Victorian style, the house was designed by Baltimore architect Jackson C. Gott, while the estate included some 11 acres. The house, grounds, and Liebig family and friends are documented in this series, many of whose images were taken by Dr. Gustav A. Liebig, Jr. Tanglewood continued to be the Liebig family's home until it was sold in 1894 (Dr. Liebig, Sr., died in 1893). After passing through several owners the house was razed, but the name "Tanglewood" was passed on to a housing subdivision built on the site in the 1940s. The Liebig and White families were neighbors in Catonsville. It is possible that Sarah Liebig gave these images and others taken by her son to G. Howard White following the death of Dr. Liebig, Jr., in 1897.

The 1904 date (from the sleeve enclosing the negative) and details of the handwriting and other information written on the sleeve suggest that this image may have been taken at a location other than Tanglewood (possibly along the Patapsco River), which by 1904 had passed out of the Liebig family's ownership. Other Tanglewood images appear to date between 1886 and 1893.

The glass negative's sleeve identifies the child as Oscar Liebig, although the feminine costume (complete with cap and seemingly "extreme" even for an era that often dressed young boys in skirts ) implies that the subject was a girl.

The Gibbons are probably Mr. and Mrs. John F. Gibbons; Gibbons was a business associate of Dr. Liebig, who became vice president of the Liebig Manufacturing Company and, in 1899, president of the American Agricultural Chemical Company. He was also one of the administrators of Dr. Liebig's estate.

MD225: Catonsville -- Catonsville Short Line

The folder includes a worksheet, a photocopied map of the area served by the line, and information about the line's history and its contemporary status.

Catonsville Short Line related holdings consist of 1 folder (5 glass negatives)

Dating to about the 1870s, the Catonsville Short Line was a branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad that ran south from the main line to serve the developing suburban community of Catonsville. It lay just down the hill from the White and Liebig homes (MD134 and MD223, respectively) in an area now covered in part by the Baltimore Beltway (I-695). Passenger service appears not to have survived beyond the 1890s (due to the existence of a streetcar line), although freight traffic continued until 1972.

The folder includes worksheets and historical information about Ilchester.

Ilchester related holdings consist of 1 folder (3 glass negatives)

Situated along the Patapsco River, Ilchester, part of Ellicott City, was the location of John Ellicott's flour mill. Although Ellicott hoped that it would become a railroad tourist destination, that role fell to the nearby town of Relay. Instead, Ilchester became a location for mill and factory work. These three images depict buildings, the river, and the 1866 iron railroad bridge. The photographs were probably all taken by Dr. Gustav A. Liebig, Jr., although only one image has been confirmed as such.

"Garcia" was probably the nickname of one of the numerous off-campus rooming houses and other lodgings in which a large part of the student body lived until well into the 20th century. According to the 1900 Princeton Bric-a-Brac yearbook, G. Howard White, Jr.'s "home" during his freshman year at the university, 1898-99, was at 47 University Place and it is likely that this was "Garcia." The name probably has its source in Calixto Garcia e Iniguez, Cuban insurgent and American ally in the Spanish-American War, a key subject in Elbert Hubbard's famous essay "A Message to Garcia," published in March 1899.

According to the negative sleeve, this image is of a painting or drawing made from a miniature of the subject. The sleeve refers to him as "Cousin Grafton Dulany of Baltimore," possibly Grafton L. Dulany, who served as Baltimore City Solicitor from 1855 to 1858. Because of Dulany family connections in northern Virginia, the artwork shown in this photograph may have resided in that state, hence its being assigned a Virginia identification number.

From the style of costume and wig, it appears that the subject of the portrait lived in the 18th century. It is possible that he was Daniel Dulany the Younger (1722-1797) since a companion image (VA159049) appears to be of his wife, Rebecca Tasker Dulany.

According to his obituary in the New York Times, February 19, 1910, Colonel Neville was a native of Ireland who had spent time in Australia before coming to Virginia in the 1870s. [Image\(s\): \[Miscellaneous Images in Virginia\] \[glass negative\]: an unidentified man and two women in a boat at White Horse.](#)

Although the negative sleeve indicates that White Horse was on the Shenandoah River [in West Virginia] the only White Horse that can be clearly identified is on the Potomac River, just south of its junction at Harpers Ferry, West Virginia, with the Shenandoah. While the Potomac's waters technically belong to the State of Maryland, this image has been placed in VA159 since it, like other Virginia images in the White Collection, was processed by the same photography studio (Jas. S. Cummins, Baltimore, Maryland).
