Imala Double mask connected by intricate image of snakes, animals, and figures carved by Abegure Akere. Died a long time ago. The figure at the back holding a cane and Koran and wearing beard and turban represents Sule, the founder of Islam in Imala. He was member of Onidofoi cult. In his time he helped carry the mask to the market. The other figure with shawl around neck and beard is probably Elemo of Onidofoi cult who was said to wear Muslim dress. He dances with the shawl. The female figures are the iyalase - they worship Onidofoi. They sit before Onidofoi and represent Apotun. They worship with kola. They are also called Awon eya wa because they are believed to have powers of witchcraft. The snakes represent the power of Onidofoi. [Other works by Akere are illustrated in Thompson, Ch.13, pl.II. Thompson says Akere did work in 1st quarter of 20thC.] [index cards p5]. The date on the slide is MAY 71.
