Biographical / Historical

Christopher Decorse is an archaeologist and anthropologist specializing in the archaeology, ethnohistory, and ethnography of Sub-Saharan Africa. In the 1970s and 1980s, Decorse traveled in several African countries to study archaeological sites, museums, and villages. As of 2023, Decorse is a professor and Chair of the Anthropology Department at Syracuse University.

Scope and Contents

The collection consists of slides taken by Christopher Decorse during his trips to Senegal, Mali, Gambia, Sierra Leone, and Ghana in the 1980s.

The Ghanaian images include scenes of Akwasidae festival celebrations, archaeological sites in Daccubie and Frederiksgave, Elmina's Bakatue festival, Fort Amsterdam in Abanazi, the Black Volta river, and various museums. Images of Sierra Leone include views of Freetown, Fourah Bay College, markets, a national dance troupe performance, and farms. Also includes images from Goree island in Senegal, Mopti and Dogon villages in Mali, harbor scenes in Banjul Gambia, and the stone circles in Wasu.

A rock lined pit near Pendembu used for soaking palm kernels in the extraction of palm oil. The kernels are soaked in the water filled pit then broken up by workers who stamp on the soaking kernels with their feet. As the kernels are broken up the oil comes out; it is then scooped out of the pit and placed in a large pot where it is boiled to eliminate excess water. In this slide the discarded shells of palm kernels can be seen at left. The fire which is used to boil the oil is in the background. This rock lined pit had a drain at the bottom which emptied into the nearby Mauwa River. Taken May-July 6, 1980. The date on the slide is JUL 80.
