Collection Overview

Repository: Human Studies Film Archives
Title: Jorge Prelorán collection
Identifier: HSFA.2007-10
Date: 1954-circa 2008
Extent: 50 Film reels (50 completed films and 1 film series; 110,600 feet of original film outtakes (51 hours); 412 hours of audiotape; 31 digital books)
22 Linear feet (Papers and photographs)
Creator: Preloran, Jorge, 1933-2009
Language: Multiple languages

Materials are primarily in English and Spanish. One film is partially in Quichua.

Summary: Documentary filmmaker Jorge Prelorán was best known for his intimate approach to ethnographic film, a style known as "ethnobiography." The majority of Prelorán's films were shot in rural areas of Argentina, particularly the Andean highlands and the Pampas (plains), often in communities of mixed Indian and Spanish heritage. Prelorán documented a wide range of subjects, including art, folk crafts, agriculture, ranching, markets, religious rituals and festivals, and social and cultural change. This collection contains edited films and videos, film outtakes, audio tapes, photographic prints and transparencies, digital books, correspondence, production files, scripts, project files, and press clippings spanning 1954-2008.

Administrative Information

Acquisition Information
This collection was donated to the Human Studies Film Archives in two accessions. The first accession, 2007-10, contains the edited films, outtakes, audio recordings, papers, and photographs and was donated by Jorge Prelorán. Materials had been stored at Prelorán's home office and home editing suite before they were packed by the processing archivist and sent to the HSFA. The second accession, 2011-07, contains the digital books and some additional photographs. This accession was donated by Mabel Prelorán. These materials had also been stored at Prelorán's home office and were sent to the HSFA by Mabel Prelorán.
Related Materials

The Human Studies Film Archives holds a copy of Fermín Rivera's edited biographical documentary film, Huellas y Memoria de Jorge Prelorán (HSFA 2015.1.27), as well as transcripts of interviews conducted with Jorge and Mabel Prelorán for the film (in Spanish).

The Harry Ransom Center, University of Texas at Austin, holds the original film for four titles Prelorán produced for the Tinker Foundation (New York, NY). These are: The Llanero; The Gaucho of Corrientes; The Gaucho of the Pampas; and The Gaucho of Salta. The Ransom Center has both English and Spanish versions of these titles. These four films were preserved in 2010 and 2011 with funding from the Tinker Foundation. HSFA holds high quality video masters of all four titles. A fifth film produced for the Tinker Foundation, El Gaucho Argentino, Hoy (The Argentine Gaucho, Today), is held at the HSFA in its Spanish version only.

The Arthur Hall Collection at Temple University, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and Ile Ife Films in Belfast, Maine hold a copy of The Unvictorious One that differs from the two versions held at the HSFA.

Processing Information

The titles for published films and videos are written in italics. "Known as" titles for unpublished works are written in quotation marks. Assigned titles are placed within square brackets.

The paper records in this collection were received partially organized. Existing groupings and arrangement were retained, and the paper records were organized into five series. Original folder titles were generally retained, with assigned titles placed within square brackets.

The digital books and ZIP disks are listed according to the order established by the creator. These digital materials have not been fully processed.

Complete processing of this collection would not have been possible without the excellent work of the following interns and volunteers:

Regina Longo - initial processing of the paper records and photographs

Richard Muñiz - processing and description of the Press Clippings series

Samantha Oddi - processing of the audio recordings

Thanks also to Mark White and Pamela Wintle for guidance in processing this collection, and to Daisy Njoku and Lorain Wang for assistance in crafting this guide.

Finally, a very special thanks to Mabel Prelorán for graciously answering innumerable questions, fact-checking the biographical sketch and chronology, and brightening many a day with her kindness and warmth.

Biographical Note

Documentary filmmaker Jorge Prelorán was best known for his intimate approach to ethnographic film, a style known as "ethnobiography." In films such as Hermógenes Cayo (Imaginero) (1970), Los Hijos de Zerda (Zerda's Children) (1974), and Zulay Frente al Siglo XXI (Zulay Facing the 21st Century) (1989), Prelorán's protagonists tell their personal stories, while also revealing the stories of their communities and cultures. Prelorán worked in Latin America and the United States, but primarily in his native country of Argentina. His career spanned from 1954 to 2008, including nearly twenty years as a film professor at the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA).

Prelorán was born May 28, 1933 in Buenos Aires, Argentina. His father, an engineer, was Argentine and had studied at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he met his wife, an American. Prelorán grew up speaking both Spanish and English. Initially pursuing a career in architecture, he studied at the Universidad Nacional de Buenos Aires. He made his first film, Venganza, with neighborhood friends in Buenos Aires in 1954. The film won the Beginner's Festival of Cine Club Argentina that same year. Prelorán was accepted as an undergraduate at the University of California, Berkeley, and studied architecture there for one year. In 1956 he withdrew from UC Berkeley and was drafted into the US Army. Prelorán served in West Germany until 1958. Upon his return he changed educational plans and began formal study of filmmaking, receiving a Bachelor of Arts in Motion Pictures from UCLA in 1960.

Shortly before the end of his service in the US Army, Prelorán married Elsa Dondi, a former classmate from Buenos Aires. They lived together in Los Angeles until Elsa returned to Argentina for the birth of their daughter, Adriana, in 1961. The couple separated shortly thereafter.

Prelorán's professional career as a filmmaker began in 1961 with a commission from the Tinker Foundation of New York for a series of films on the Argentine gaucho. In the course of shooting for these films, Prelorán traveled extensively throughout Argentina, visiting many locations in Patagonia and in the northwest where he would later return to make many of his films. From 1963-1969, Prelorán was under contract at the Universidad Nacional de Tucumán to produce educational films; he also produced a series of short films on Argentine folklore with support from Fondo Nacional de las Artes and under the mentorship of folklorist Augusto Raúl Cortazar, Ph.D.

In the late 1960s, Prelorán became involved with UCLA's Ethnographic Film Program and in 1970 he returned to UCLA as a lecturer for two semesters. Later that year he was a fellow at Harvard University's Film Study Center, where he produced the English-language version of Imaginero (Hermógenes Cayo). Prelorán was the recipient of two Guggenheim Fellowships, in 1971 and 1975, and used those opportunities to produce quite a number of films, including Damacio Caitruz (Araucanians of Ruca Choroy).
Prelorán remarried in 1972. His wife, Mabel Freddi, became a collaborator on his films. She wrote the screenplay for Mi Tía Nora (My Aunt Nora) (1983) and co-directed Zulay Frente al Siglo XXI (Zulay Facing the 21st Century) (1989), among other credited and un-credited roles. After the Argentine military coup of March 1976 and the disappearances of fellow filmmaker Raymundo Gleyzer and Mabel's niece, Haydee, the Preloráns became fearful for their own safety. They fled to the United States, a move that would become permanent. Prelorán accepted a position as associate professor at UCLA's School of Theater, Film and Television. He later joined the faculty as a tenured professor.

During his time at UCLA, Prelorán was twice selected as a Fulbright Scholar, in 1987 and 1994. He continued to produce films, including the Academy Award-nominated documentary short Luther Metke at 94 (1980) and the 7-hour natural history television series Patagonia (1992). After retiring in 1994, Prelorán continued to mentor film students as Professor Emeritus; he also began work in a new medium, creating a series of digital books, "Nos = Otros" ("Sages Amongst Us") (unpublished), featuring individuals engaged in creative and educational pursuits.

Prelorán died at his home in Culver City, CA at the age of 75 on March 28, 2009.

Scope and Contents

The majority of Prelorán's films were shot in rural areas of Argentina, particularly the Andean highlands and the Pampas (plains), often in communities of mixed Indian and Spanish heritage. Prelorán documented a wide range of subjects, including art, folk crafts, agriculture, ranching, markets, religious rituals and festivals, and social and cultural change. Several films focus on natural history and science. There are also a number of experimental and fiction films.

Prelorán formed close friendships with many of the subjects of his films and corresponded with them long after the films were completed. This is reflected in the paper records, as is Prelorán's wide circle of colleagues and collaborators, including anthropologists, musicians, animators, historians, painters, writers, photographers, current and former students at UCLA, and fellow filmmakers. The extensive collection of press clippings, screening notices, and festival catalogs documents Prelorán's influence in Argentina, Europe, and the United States.

In the series of digital books, Prelorán presents the personal stories of individuals involved in creative work. Some books feature subjects profiled in the films, updating or expanding on their stories.

Arrangement

Filmmography

Prelorán is best known for his intimate approach to ethnographic film, a style known as "ethnobiography". In films such as Hermogenes Cayo (Imaginero) (1970), Cochengo Miranda (1974), and Zerda's Children (1978), Prelorán's protagonists tell their personal stories, while also revealing the stories of their communities and cultures. His 1989 film Zulay, Facing the 21st Century was considered ground-breaking for its nuanced discussion of immigration and culture change and for its self-reflexive nature (the film was co-directed by Prelorán's wife, anthropologist Mabel Prelorán, and the subject, Zulay Saravino).

Prelorán's filmography also includes several short experimental films and one feature-length fiction film, My Aunt Nora (1983) (screenplay by Mabel Prelorán). Prelorán produced and directed more than sixty films and has cinematography and editing credits on many others. He collaborated with anthropologists, writers, musicians, visual artists, filmmakers, and scientists, both in Argentina and the United States.

Please note that not all titles from Prelorán's filmography are held at the Human Studies Film Archives.

Series 1: Completed Films and Videos, 1954-circa 2008

102 Items (50 completed films and 1 film series; 93,685 feet of 16mm film (43.5 hours) and 100 minutes videotape)

Jorge Prelorán completed more than 50 films during his career. He deposited 47 of these films and one multi-part film series at the HSFA. Several titles in the filmography are not included here; those titles were not in Prelorán's possession at the time of accession are not held at the HSFA. Many other titles have an alternate version, second language version, or both. Multiple versions are noted in individual descriptions below. Availability of reference copies is also noted below. Reference copies may be viewed on site at HSFA; some may be purchased for personal or research use. Several titles are currently in distribution by Documentary Educational Resources (DER).

For all film titles there is original film and original audio. Some titles have preservation film and audio. For all video titles there is original video. Each description below includes: HSFA film number, title, total film footage in feet (if applicable), total running time, and description of the original film or video. All film is 16mm, unless otherwise noted; video is in various formats, as noted. Contact the archives for information on availability of access copies. Original audiovisual material in the Human Studies Film Archives may not be played.

The series is divided into two sub-series: (1.1) Films directed by Prelorán, 1954-circa 2008; (1.2) Films directed by others, circa 1958, circa 1969

Please contact the archives for information on availability of access copies of audiovisual recordings. Original audiovisual material in the Human Studies Film Archives may not be played.

1.1: Films directed by Prelorán, 1954-circa 2008

Completed films and videos have been organized in chronological order, according to the earliest known date of publication (via a screening or general release for distribution). Incomplete films have been organized by date of creation.

Venganza
Fiction crime film about a band of criminals, shot in a film noir style. This is Prelorán's first film, made with neighborhood friends in Buenos Aires. The film was released in 1954 and won an award at the Beginner's Festival, Cine Club Argentina that same year. The HSFA holds two versions of this film.

Item 2007.10.1 Venganza (ca. 1965 version), 1954, 1965
In Spanish.
550 feet (15 minutes); silent black-and-white; reversal film; 1954/1965. This appears to be the original version of the film, though there is some footage dating to 1965, so it is possible the film was slightly re-edited at that time.

In Spanish.
863 feet (24 minutes); silent black-and-white; positive film; 1995. Longer, re-edited version includes inter-titles not found in the original.
At Three O'Clock
Fiction thriller film based on the 1938 short story "Three O'Clock" by Cornell Woolrich (aka William Irish) and shot in a film noir style. Film was shot in Buenos Aires in 1955 and editing was completed in Berkeley, CA, in 1956.

Item 2007.10.3 At Three O'Clock, 1956
In Spanish.
472 feet (13 minutes); silent black-and-white; negative film; 1956.

The Unvictorious One
Experimental dance film features dancer Arthur Hall, founder of the Arthur Hall Afro-American Dance Ensemble, portraying a man caught in a world of prejudice and racism. Film was shot in Heidelberg, West Germany while Prelorán and Hall were serving in the US Army. Prelorán credited Hall with the original idea for the film. The HSFA holds two versions of this film.

Item 2007.10.4 The Unvictorious One (1957 version), 1957
In English.
700 feet (19 minutes); silent color; reversal and positive film; 1957. Original version of the film.

Item 2007.10.79 The Unvictorious One (1996 version), 1996
In English.
510 feet (14 minutes); silent color; positive film; 1996. Re-edited version includes additional footage and inter-titles of a poem by Langston Hughes not found in the original.

Mackinac Island
Travelogue film documents the natural beauty and historic structures of Mackinac Island, Michigan, USA. Film was shot during the summer of 1955 while Prelorán was working on the island and was completed in 1958.

Item 2007.10.2 Mackinac Island, 1958
In English.
500 feet (14 minutes); silent color; reversal film; 1958.

This Is U.C.L.A.
Experimental film introduces the University of California, Los Angeles, (UCLA) from the perspectives of students from different disciplines, including architecture, philosophy, and animation. Film was shot and edited while Prelorán was a student at UCLA. The HSFA holds two versions of this film.

Item 2007.10.5 This Is U.C.L.A. (1959 version), 1959
In English.
964 feet (26.5 minutes); silent color and black-and-white; reversal film; 1959. This is the original version.

Item 2007.10.75 Is This U.C.L.A.??!! (1995 version), 1995
In English.
964 feet (26.5 minutes); silent color and black-and-white; positive film; 1995. This version includes a slightly different title and updated credits, but is otherwise the same.

"Delirium Tremens"
Experimental film about an alcoholic suffering from delirium tremens while roaming the streets of Los Angeles. Film was shot in 1959 while Prelorán was a student at UCLA. Cinematography is by Columbian filmmaker and fellow UCLA student Julio Luzardo. The film was edited and re-edited over several decades, including a digital edit in 2008, though Prelorán considered it unfinished.

Item 2007.10.6
"Delirium Tremens", circa 1960
In Spanish.
733 feet (20 minutes); silent, black-and-white; positive film; circa 1960.

Death, Be Not Proud
Experimental film based on the poem "Holy Sonnet X" (also known as "Death, Be Not Proud") by John Donne. Prelorán wrote: "Edited as a sonata in three movements, the film shows the terror of a soldier upon the battle field." The soldier is portrayed by actor Tom Skerrit. Cinematography is by Columbian filmmaker and fellow UCLA student Julio Luzardo. This film was presented as Prelorán's thesis project at UCLA in 1961. The HSFA holds three versions of this film.

Item 2007.10.66
Death, Be Not Proud (1961 version), 1961
In English.
371 feet (10 minutes); sound, black-and-white; positive film; 1961. The original version, Prelorán's thesis project.

Item 2007.10.67
Muerte, No Seas Orgullosa, 1961
In Spanish.
365 feet (10 minutes); sound, black-and-white and color; positive film; 1961. Spanish language version of 2007.10.66 Death, Be Not Proud (1961 version)”. There are two prints, one black-and-white, one monochrome color. These prints are archival originals.

Item 2007.10.7
Death, Be Not Proud (1994 version), 1994
In English.
314 feet (8.5 minutes); sound, black-and-white; positive film; 1994. Shorter, re-edited version, dating to 1994.

The Llanero
Ethnographic film documents the work, daily life, and traditions of the llaneros (cowboys) of the grasslands of Columbia. Produced for the Tinker Foundation of New York, NY. Film was shot in October 1961 at Hacienda de La Guaira, San Martin, Colombia and was released in 1962. This film is also part of the Edward Larocque Tinker collection, Harry Ransom Center, University of Texas at Austin.

Item 2007.10.82
The Llanero, 1962
In English.
692 feet (18.5 minutes); sound, color; positive film; 1962.

Costa Patagónica
Educational film documents the flora and fauna of the entire length of the Atlantic coast of the Patagonia region of Argentina. Film was shot in 1961 and released in 1962.

Item 2007.10.8

Claudia (Claudia y Yo)

Experimental film described by Prelorán as “a free improvisation with a child of 5 who plays, has fun, gets mad, and ends up in frenetic activity, all enhanced with superimposed animation.” The film has four versions, each with a different musical score. Prelorán’s intention was that all four versions would be viewed together in order to compare how the character of the child changes according to the music. The film was shot in Tucumán, Argentina, around 1965. The child is Claudia Niccolini, the daughter of a friend and colleague of Prelorán’s. In 1966, Prelorán released his first version of the film, titled Claudia y Yo. He later re-edited and shortened the film and, over time, requested soundtracks from several composers. In 1972, he released four versions under the title Claudia; these are the four intended to be viewed together. The HSFA holds five versions of this title.

Documentary film co-directed by Steve Raymen presents a portrait of Luther Metke, a Spanish American War veteran, poet, philosopher, and log-cabin maker, aged 94 at the time of filming. In voice over narration drawn from interviews, Metke recites his own poetry and talks about his life and his philosophy. Includes footage of Metke building a six-sided cabin, being interviewed by a local TV news station, and visiting with his family. Historical and family photographs illustrate events from Metke's past. Film was shot in 1977 and 1978 in Camp Sherman, Cascade Mountains, Oregon, and released in 1979. Nominated for an Academy Award for Best Documentary (Short Subject) in 1980.

1.2: Films directed by others, circa 1958-circa 1969
Arranged in chronological order, according to the earliest known date of publication (via a screening or general release for distribution).

Unica Salida
Fiction thriller film directed by Julio Luzardo. Shot in a film noir style, the film features a couple attending a carnival where they are followed by a suspicious man. Film has sound, but no dialogue. Luzardo, a Columbian filmmaker, was a student at UCLA when the film was produced. Jorge Prelorán is credited with cinematography and sound.

Item 2007.10.92
Unica Salida, circa 1958
In Spanish.
330 feet (9 minutes); sound, black-and-white; negative film; circa 1958.

Clic
Amateur travelogue film by Lorenzo Kelly documents a trip to the Andes mountains and the town of Junin de Los Andes in Neuquén Province, Argentina. The film includes landscape shots of snow-covered mountains and a large lake, footage of camping, and numerous shots of a man photographing with a still camera. Kelly assisted Prelorán with many films during the 1960s, and often took still photographs while Prelorán was shooting film. Prelorán is not credited in the film; however, according to Mabel Prelorán, he may have given Kelly some editing assistance.

Item 2007.10.93
Clic, circa 1969
In Spanish.
650 feet (18 minutes); sound, color; positive film; circa 1969.

Relationship between a South American Finch and a Wasp
Educational film by Francisco Contino documents the symbiotic relationship between certain birds and wasps. Film was shot in the area of Yuto, Jujuy Province, Argentina. The style of the film is similar to that of The Red-Tailed Comet, also by Contino. Prelorán does not appear to have been involved in making the film. According to Mabel Prelorán, he assisted Contino in finding an American distributor for it.

Item 2007.10.94
Relationship between a South American Finch and a Wasp, circa 1963
In English.
200 feet (5.5 minutes); sound, color; positive film; circa 1963.

Series 2: Film Outtakes, 1960s-1980s

26 Items (110,600 feet of film; 51 hours)

This series contains the “outtakes,” or unused footage, from the edited films. Particularly in the early part of his career, Prelorán adhered to a very tight shooting ratio (generally 2:1), as a result of limited budgets for the purchase of film stock. Therefore, despite the large number of edited films, there are relatively few outtakes. This unused footage provides additional documentation of subjects found in the edited films.

For all film outtakes, there is original film only. Each description below includes: HSFA film number, title, total film footage in feet, total running time, and description of the original film. All film is 16mm, unless otherwise noted. Dates refer to the date code (production date) of the film stock, which is not necessarily the same as the date the footage was shot. For some titles there are no surviving outtakes. Contact the archives for information on availability of access copies. Original audiovisual material in the Human Studies Film Archives may not be played.

Arranged alphabetically by the film they are associated with. Outtakes that are not related to a film are in "miscellaneous" groups, organized alphabetically by their existing title or label.

Please contact the archives for information on availability of access copies of audiovisual recordings. Original audiovisual material in the Human Studies Film Archives may not be played.

7.5 Linear feet (18 boxes)

This series contains a mix of personal and professional correspondence. Very often, individual letters include both personal and professional content. Correspondence is in Spanish and English. The bulk of the letters relate to Prelorán’s films and other projects. Correspondents include: Timothy Asch, Sergio Barbieri, Emilie de Brigard, Robert Gardner, Raymundo Gleyzer, Ana Montes de Gonzalez, Lorenzo Kelly, Alan Lomax, David MacDougall, Chick Strand, Howard Suber, and Colin Young, as well as Prelorán’s daughter, parents, and sisters. Film subjects with whom Prelorán corresponded include: Damacio Caitruz, Hermógenes Cayo, Hector di Mauro, Cochengo Miranda, Medardo Pantoja, Zulay Saravino, and many of their families.

In addition to the correspondents’ nicknames, Prelorán is sometimes referred to by his childhood nickname, Dick (taken from his middle name, Ricardo).

Additional correspondence is found in Series 5: Production Files, Series 6: Project Files, Series 7: UCLA, and Series 9: Press Clippings. Series 9 contains more correspondence from the late 1950s and early 1960s than is found here.

Prelorán had filed correspondents in various ways, including last name, first name, nickname, or company or institutional affiliation. Some correspondents were filed more than one way, such as by first and last names in different years. There are a few folders for individuals at the beginning of the series, however additional correspondence with those individuals is scattered throughout the chronological files.

Series 5: Production Files, 1961-1998

5 Linear feet (12 boxes)

This series contains field notes, interview transcriptions, editing notes, synopses, scripts, credit lists, promotional materials, proposals, budgets, lab receipts, work orders, screening notices, and correspondence relating to Prelorán's completed and uncompleted films (including the films in Series 1). Most folders contain materials in Spanish and English.

This series is organized alphabetically according to film title, with two miscellaneous folders at the end.

Original folder names were a mix of Spanish and English, with some films referred to by shortened titles. Folder names for this series have been standardized by the processing archivist to conform to published film titles; two uncompleted films are listed under their working titles. A number of scripts kept separate by Prelorán have been integrated into this series. Photographs have been separated out (see Series 10).

Series 8: Press Clippings, 1960-2005

5.5 Linear feet (13 boxes)

This series is comprised primarily of a set of binders that Prelorán had compiled that include: newspaper and magazine articles about Prelorán, reviews of his films, announcements of film screenings, film festival programs, awards, field notes, correspondence, and ephemera. Although Prelorán referred to these as 'press binders' they are more like scrapbooks due to the diversity of materials included.

Press clippings are primarily in Spanish and English, although there are several European publications as well. The correspondence overlaps with that of other series. Some notable correspondents included here are: Fondo Nacional de las Artes, Guggenheim Foundation, Richard Hawkins, Margaret Mead, Edward Larocque Tinker, and Colin Young. Ephemera includes airplane tickets, film festival passes, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences award nomination certificate for Luther Metke at 94, and the invitation, menu, and other items from a 1985 White House State Dinner attended by Prelorán.

Please request the appendix from the archivist for an item-level inventory for this series.

The material is organized in roughly chronological order, following Prelorán's arrangement. Some loose material that Prelorán had intended to add to the binders was integrated into this series.

This series contains black-and-white and color photographic prints, slides, negatives, transparencies, and 16mm film "trims" (short sections of camera original reversal film, usually 5-15 frames each). Most of the prints, slides, and negatives were taken by colleagues while Prelorán was filming. The two primary photographers are Sergio Barbieri and Lorenzo Kelly, who assisted Prelorán during the 1960s and early 1970s in Argentina. These photographs show Prelorán at work, as well as the subjects and locations of his films. The transparencies may have been used to make titles or promotional materials for some of the films. The 16mm trims come directly from the edited films (Series 1).

The majority of the photographs are organized according to the film they are related to, maintaining Prelorán's arrangement. Some folders or individual photographs were separated out from Series 5: Production Files during processing.

Prelorán's creative energy was seemingly limitless. After a lifetime of filmmaking, he began working in a new medium, creating a series of 31 image-rich digital books, "Nos = Otros" ("Sages Among Us"). Each book presents the personal story of someone devoted to a creative pursuit. The books celebrate teachers, painters, writers, filmmakers, photographers, farmers, and artisans, all seeking to express themselves through their work.

Drawing from interviews and using archival materials such as photographs, drawings, and written texts, often provided by subjects, Prelorán created these books to inspire younger generations to pursue their career dreams. At the end of his life, he was in the process of developing a course curriculum to use the books in two ways: first, to teach about the value of cultural diversity; and second, to train students in gathering oral histories and transforming them into visual and textual narratives. His dream was to inspire students to create their own books to document their experiences.

Several book subjects were first profiled in Prelorán’s films, including Hermógenes Cayo, presented above. Cayo passed away in 1968, decades before the book was made, so Prelorán collaborated with Cayo’s son, Pedro, to tell the story of this singular man.

Some audio recordings relate to the books, containing oral histories and interviews with the subjects.

Series is arranged in two subseries: (10.1) Paper records, 1994-1998, undated; (10.2) Digital records

The paper records are part of accession 2007.10.
