- Extent: 42.5 Linear feet ((88 boxes and 1 map case folder) )
- Language: English .
- Summary: The Papers of John Victor Murra document his personal and professional life through audiovisual materials, correspondence, diaries, graduate school notes, lectures, photocopies of archival materials, photographs, published materials collected by Murra, reading and research notes and his own writings. The materials span more than 70 years. The collection includes materials relating to Murra's immigration to the United States and later lawsuit for naturalization, his undergraduate and graduate studies at the University of Chicago, his experiences in the Spanish Civil War and in Ecuador during the Second World War as Don Collier's assistant, his teaching career at a number of colleges and universities in the United States and abroad including the University of Puerto Rico, Vassar College, Yale University, and Cornell University, and his research interests such as the fieldwork projects he directed at Hunuco and Lake Titicaca. The bulk of his correspondence may be found in Series I - Correspondence which mostly consists of his communications with former classmates from the University of Chicago, colleagues in the United States and abroad, and former students. Series IV - Biographical and Series VII - Graduate School and Teaching contain a significant amount of material pertaining to Murra's studies at the University of Chicago and his lawsuit for naturalization. Correspondence and newspaper editorials from F. C. Cole and Robert Redfield as well as oral history transcripts of Murra's personal reminiscences are among the items found in these series. For many years, Murra also kept personal diaries, originally intended as records of his dreams, which form Series III - Dream Archives. Although this collection is primarily textual in nature, there are also a photograph and an audio-visual series. The later includes recordings of Murra's Lewis Henry Morgan lectures. The occasional photograph also appears throughout other series.

Administrative Information

Acquisition Information

The John Victor Murra papers came to the National Anthropological Archives in several installments over three decades. David Block of Cornell University assisted Murra in selecting and identifying materials for the installment of the collection which arrived at the Smithsonian Institution in September 2003.

In 2008, the VHS videos in the collection were transferred to the Human Studies Film Archives. Additional videotapes were sent to the NAA and transferred to HSFA.

Related Materials

National Anthropological Archives holds additional materials related to Murra in the American Ethnological Society records, the American Society for Ethnohistory records, and the Handbook of South American Indians records.

The New York University Libraries, Tamiment Library/Robert F. Wagner Labor Archives holds materials related to Murra in Abraham Lincoln Brigade Archive (ALBA), John Dollard Research Files for Fear and Courage under Battle Conditions, and James Lardner Papers.

The Truman Presidential Museum and Library holds Records on the President's Committee on Civil Rights Record Group 220.

Processing Information

The archivist merged the multiple accessions into one collection and established 11 series. Original order and folder titles were retained when possible. When the archivist established new folder titles, she used square brackets []. The archivist used the Post-it note labels written by David Block to organize and describe the materials in Series IX --Photographs, Series X -- Audiovisual Materials, and Series XI --Maps. All materials were refoldered and the photographs were sleeved. The archivist photocopied the newspaper clippings and removed all staples and paperclips. Folders that contained oversize materials are indicated in the finding aid and have separation sheets stating the new location of the oversize items. Social Security Numbers have been redacted from copies of proposals and grants. The handful of folders that are restricted contain confidential information concerning individual students (e.g., course grades).

The archivist wishes to thank Ann Hunt, Robert Leopold and Susan McElrath for their assistance in processing this collection.

In 2009, the sound recordings were separated from the collection and moved to the audio cabinets. Loose notes were separated from the recordings and placed in a folder titled "[Audio ephemera]" and filed with the rest of the collection.

In 2011, the finding aid was updated to include additional materials sent by David Block. These materials include honorary certificates, site maps of Huanuco, Peru, correspondence, and audio recordings of John Murra's commemoration on December 16, 2006 in Ithaca, New York. Some of the materials suffered water damage prior to their transfer to the archives and show signs of inactive mold growth. These materials are stored separated in Accretions, Box 1. Preservation copies were made of the documents that exhibited more serious signs of mold, and the originals were discarded.

Biographical Note

John Victor Murra was born Isak Lipschitz on August 24, 1916 in Odessa, Ukraine. He spent his childhood and adolescence in Bucharest, Romania where he passed his baccalaureate examinations in 1933. Following high school, he worked as an apprentice in paper factories in Romania and Croatia.

In December 1934, Murra immigrated to Chicago, Illinois, where his uncle lived, to escape the worsening political turmoil in Romania. Shortly after his arrival in the United States, Murra enrolled at the University of Chicago where he completed a Bachelor of Arts in sociology in 1936. He then enlisted in the International Brigade and served as an infantry corporal in the 58th battalion, 15th brigade in the Spanish Republican

Army. At the end of the Spanish Civil War, he spent almost six months (February-June 1939) in refugee internment camps, most notably the camp at Argèles-sur-Mer, France. In 1939, Murra returned to Chicago to continue his studies and it was about this time that he started to use the name Murra in official documents. He completed his Master of Arts degree in Anthropology at the University of Chicago in 1942.

The war injuries sustained by Murra during the Spanish Civil War exempted him from military service during the Second World War. Between 1941 and 1942, Murra traveled to Ecuador as the assistant to Donald Collier, Conservator at the Field Museum of Chicago, on an archaeological project sponsored by the Institute of Andean Research. His work with Collier ultimately led him to contribute to the Handbook of South American Indians. Between 1942 and 1943, he worked as an interviewer for John Dollard and Ruth Benedict in their work for the United States Department of War to survey Abraham Lincoln Brigade veterans. In 1943, Murra was appointed Instructor in Anthropology at the University of Chicago to fill in for Fred Eggan, who entered military service. In addition to instructing at the University of Chicago during the mid-1940s, Murra also served as editor on the topic of anthropology for the Encyclopedia Britannica (1945-1946).

The decade or so following the Second World War was often extremely frustrating for Murra as he pursued his quest for American citizenship. In 1946, the U.S. government denied his applications for naturalization and travel papers on the grounds that he had served in the Spanish Republican Army. Consequently, Murra was unable to accept a fellowship from the Social Science Research Council that would have funded his travel to Ecuador to pursue his doctoral research. Although he finally won his lawsuit for citizenship in 1950, Murra did not receive a passport until 1956 and was ultimately forced to change thesis topics in order to continue his doctoral studies without field work. To support himself during this difficult period, Murra taught at several American institutions—most notably at the University of Puerto Rico, Rio Piedras (1947-1950) and Vassar College (1950-1961), and supervised a number of field work programs in the Caribbean for Columbia University, Vassar College, Yale University and the University of Montreal. He also served briefly as a regional specialist on African land tenure for the United Nations.

In 1955, Murra defended his Ph.D. dissertation, The Economic Organization of the Inca State and he was awarded a Ph.D. in Anthropology the following year from the University of Chicago. Shortly thereafter he took a sabbatical from Vassar College to teach in Peru (1958-1960) at the Universidad Nacional Mayor de San Marcos, Lima and pursue research at the archives of Cuzco.

In the 1960s, Murra turned his attention towards pursuing research interests and cultivating the anthropological training of South American graduate students. He left Vassar College in 1961 and spent time teaching as a visiting professor, first for the Organization of American States at the Escuela Nacional de Antropología y Historia, Mexico (1961) and then at Yale University (1962). Murra received in 1963 a three-year National Science Foundation grant for his well known study of Huánuco, Peru. During his fieldwork for this project, he continued to teach at the Universidad Nacional Mayor de San Marcos in Lima, Peru (1965-1966) and the Universidad de Chile (1965). He also worked to improve the educational opportunities for South American students by supporting efforts to establish a graduate school at the Universidad de La Plata. Upon returning to the United States, Murra was a National Academy of Sciences postdoctoral associate at the Smithsonian Institution (1966-1967).

From 1968 to 1982, Murra served as Professor of Anthropology at Cornell University. He continued to travel extensively to archives in Spain and South America during this period and held a number of academic posts at other institutions including Yale University (1970-1971), the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton University (1974-1975), l'Université Paris X Nanterre (1975-1976), the Instituto Nacional de Antropología e Historia in Mexico (1977) and John Hopkins University (1981). He also served as the president of the American Society of Ethnohistory (1970-1971), the American Ethnological Society (1972-1973), and the Institute of Andean Research (1977-1983). Murra's efforts to cultivate educational opportunities for South American graduate students and promote international dialogue among students from different nationalities produced three well known programs: the comparative seminar on the Andes and Mesoamerica that he organized with Angel Palerm (1972), the Lake Titicaca field project he ran with Luis G. Lumbrebas (1973) and the Otoño Andino held at Cornell University (1977). In 1969, he received the honor of being the Lewis Henry Morgan Lecturer at the University of Rochester.

Following his retirement from Cornell University (1982), Murra served as a consultant to the Banco Nacional de Bolivia at the Museo Nacional de Etnografía, La Paz (1982-1983). He received a Guggenheim Fellowship (1983-1984), that enabled him to pursue research at the Archivo Nacional and the Academia de la Historia in Madrid and the Archivo General de Indias in Seville. During his time in Spain, he also taught at the Universities of Madrid and Seville and at the Institut Catalá d'Antropologi in Barcelona (1985-1986). The following year, he was a Visiting Professor at the London School of Economics and was awarded the Grand Cross of the Order of the Sun, Peru. He then pursued research at the Instituto de Antropologia de Buenos Aires (1988-1989) and then returned to Spain, where he was a fellow at the Archivo de Indias (1990-1991). In 1993, the Universidad de Barcelona awarded him the honor of Doctor Honoris Causa.

Murra was married and divorced twice; neither marriage produced any children. He first married Virginia Miller in 1936; the date of their divorce is unknown. His second marriage to Elizabeth "Tommy" Sawyer lasted thirteen years (1945-1958).

Scope and Contents

The Papers of John Victor Murra document his personal and professional life through audiovisual materials, correspondence, diaries, graduate school notes, lectures, photocopies of archival materials, photographs, published materials collected by Murra, reading and research notes and his own writings. The materials span more than 70 years.

The collection includes materials relating to Murra's immigration to the United States and later lawsuit for naturalization, his undergraduate and graduate studies at the University of Chicago, his experiences in the Spanish Civil War and in Ecuador during the Second World War as Don Collier's assistant, his teaching career at a number of colleges and universities in the United States and abroad including the University of Puerto Rico, Vassar College, Yale University, and Cornell University, and his research interests such as the fieldwork projects he directed at Huánuco and Lake Titicaca.

Murra is a polyglot and a prolific correspondent, two elements which are reflected throughout the collection. English, French, Spanish and Romanian are the predominant languages used in his correspondence, but there are also letters in German, Italian and Russian. The bulk of his correspondence may be found in Series I --Correspondence which mostly consists of his communications with former classmates from the University of Chicago, colleagues in the United States and abroad, and former students. Series IV --Biographical and Series VII --Graduate School and Teaching contain a significant amount of material pertaining to Murra's studies at the University of Chicago and his lawsuit for naturalization. Correspondence and newspaper editorials from F. C. Cole and Robert Redfield as well as oral history transcripts of Murra's personal reminiscences are among the items found in these series. For many years, Murra also kept personal diaries, originally intended as records of his dreams, which form Series III --Dream Archives. Although this collection is primarily textual in nature, there are also a photograph and an audio-visual series. The later includes recordings of Murra's Lewis Henry Morgan lectures. The occasional photograph also appears throughout other series.

Please note that the contents of the collection and the language and terminology used reflect the context and culture of the time of its creation. As an historical document, its contents may be at odds with contemporary views and terminology and considered offensive today. The information within this collection does not reflect the views of the Smithsonian Institution or National Anthropological Archives, but is available in its original form to facilitate research.

Container Listing

Series 1: Correspondence, 1937-1998, 2004 - 2004 (bulk 1950-1990)

19.75 Linear feet (40 boxes)

Scope and Contents: This series contains correspondence with individuals and organizations relating to Murra's family, personal interests, research, and professional activities. It is a testament to Murra's proficiency with languages. Most of the correspondence is written in English, Spanish and French. However, there is also correspondence written in Romanian, Italian, German and Russian. Many of the letters also have photographs, newspaper clippings or other attachments. The bulk of the collection's correspondence is in this series but there is correspondence in other series, most notably in Series II --Chronological Correspondence.

Materials are filed under an individual or an organization name. The arrangement is alphabetical by individual and institution name. Given the polyglot nature of this collection, the archivist tried to retain and/or denote the appropriate accent marks in folder titles. Many of the correspondents from Spanish speaking countries have two surnames: the first from their father, the second from their mother. Their names are listed alphabetically by their father's name and where known the mother's name is included thereafter (e.g. Rodríguez Suy Suy, Ant. [Victor Antonio]). Items are filed chronologically with undated materials at back of folder. Multiple folders are indicated in parenthesis (e.g., (3 folders)). Oversized materials are stored separately from their folders and notated [Oversize]. Restricted folders contain confidential information concerning individual students (e.g., course grades).

Among the many notable correspondents in this series are: Murra's close friends and classmates from his days at the University of Chicago (e.g., Robert Armstrong, Conrad and Priscilla Reining, Anne Lynch, and Philleo Nash) and his colleagues from a variety of teaching posts and research projects (e.g., Bob Manners, Elena Padilla, and Eric Wolf, who taught with him at the University of Puerto Rico; Helen Codere, his colleague at Vassar College; J. H. Rowe, Maria Rostworowski de Diez Canseco, Nathan Wachtel, R. Tom Zuidema, to name a few). Indeed, his correspondents covered the globe and included researchers behind the Iron Curtain and in Finland, Japan and Israel.

The correspondents also include a number of Murra's former students such as author Kurt Vonnegut, who sent a letter of congratulations to Murra upon his receiving a Guggenheim fellowship (see Box 15, Guggenheim Fdtn., 1982-1985). His correspondence with M.I.T. Professor Heather Lechtman, a former student at Vassar College, spans one of the longest timeframes in the collection. Another notable Vassar connection is the feminist Laura Rand Orthwein, who at one time took Murra's surname as her own and is known today as Laura X.

Most of the materials relating to Murra's family are found in this series in the folders titled: [Iosifecu, Ata and family], 1940-1978, 1988-1990 and [Lipschitz, A. and family], 1927-1934. Beatrice Iosifecu, or Ata as he addresses her, is Murra's sister. A. Lipschitz was Murra's father and the materials in this folder, which include an invitation to Murra's bar mitzvah, are among the oldest in the collection. Almost all of the correspondence in these two folders are in Romanian as is that in the folder titled Pop, Mihai. Additional and extensive correspondence among Murra, Ata Iosifecu and Mihai Pop may be found in Series VIII --J. V. M. Publications in the folder titled [Economic Organization of the Inca State, Romanian Translation]—Ata, 1978-1988 and n.d. Murra had a difficult relationship with his mother, whose maiden name appears to be Bialik based on a check stub found in the folder Matos [Mar], José, 1958-1987 (Box 23).

Most materials of a biographical nature may be found in Series V—Biographical. However, information about Murra's childhood and career may also be found in this series under Guggenheim, Scott and [The Hispanic American Historical Review] HAHR. Discussion of Murra's experiences in the Spanish Civil War may also be found under Meyer, Jean and Valledor, J. A. [José Antonio].

Series 2: Chronological Correspondence, 1953 - 1991

1 Linear foot (2 boxes)

Scope and Contents: The correspondence in this series is organized by the year in which it was written. Most of the letters stand by themselves and do not relate to a specific individual or organization listed in Series I --Correspondence. Of particular interest is an exchange of letters between Murra and Robert McMillan in 1974 concerning the history of the Department of Anthropology at the University of Chicago.

Series 3: Dream Archives [Diaries], 1951-1996 (bulk 1951-1983)

2.25 Linear feet (5 boxes)

Scope and Contents: The Dream Archives are essentially Murra's handwritten diaries. At the suggestion of one of his therapists Murra started writing in these stenograph notebooks to record his dreams. Hence, the title of this series. However, these notebooks also contain descriptions of his daily activities, conversations and thoughts including monthly calendars that Murra sketched on loose pieces of paper and left folded up inside the notebooks usually at the end. Most of the information relates to family and personal relationships. Murra often used pseudonyms in writing about others. For instance, Lilac refers to one of his former Vassar students, Laura Rand Orthwein, who is perhaps better known by her two pen names: Laura X or Laura Shaw Murra. Occasional details relating to travels or professional interests also appear. Information about Murra's therapists may also be found in Series I --Correspondence, Box 31 under R-J [Eisenbud, Ruth-Jean and other analysts], 1949, 1967-1975.

For preservation purposes the cardboard covers of the stenograph notebooks were discarded. Each diary is housed in an acid-free paper wrapper that is labeled in the manner Murra labeled the cardboard cover. All relevant notes on the cardboard covers were preservation photocopied and placed with the diary.

Series 4: Biographical, 1937 - 1995

0.5 Linear feet (1 box)

Scope and Contents: This series focuses exclusively on Murra's personal life. The materials in this series include correspondence, curriculum vitae, interview transcripts, newspaper clippings, and a variety of legal documents. Of special interest are the folders on his legal struggle for U. S. citizenship and his oral history interview with John Howland Rowe for The Hispanic American Historical Review. The Murra Citizenship Case folder includes newspaper editorials and letters to the editor by F. C. Cole and Robert Redfield, registers of donations to the John Murra Citizenship Fund, correspondence from his lawyers and supporters and copies of the legal petitions submitted to the U. S. Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit. Correspondence from F. C. Cole as well as Donald Collier and George C. Vaillant, the Chairman of the Institute of Andean Research some of which concerns Murra's naturalization and selective service status are also contained in the Ecuador Trip folder. A certificate from the League of Nations' Commission Militaire Internationale attesting to Murra's Romanian citizenship is located in Spain—Civil War. One of the unique aspects of this document is its use of Murra's birth name, Isak Lipschitz. The same folder also contains correspondence from the Spanish Civil War in Romanian and English. The last folder in this series, [Spanish Civil War]—Perpignan, consists of materials from a colloquim at the Université de Perpignan on Les Francais et la Guerre d'Espagne includes the remarks in French that Murra wrote for the occasion.

Series I --Correspondence also contains significant biographical information: for his family, see [Ionsifecu, Ata and family] and [Lipschitz, A. and family]; for his childhood and career, see Guggenheim, Scott and [The Hispanic American Historical Review] HAHR; for his Spanish Civil War experiences, see Meyer, Jean and Valledor, J. A. [José Antonio]; and for his fieldwork in Ecuador during the Second World War see [Ecuador]—Article of [the] "[Catholic] Church in Ecuador" and [Ecuador]—Buitrón Field Notes, etc. Additional information of autobiographic nature may be found in Series IV—Dream Archives.

Series 5: Subject and Publications, 1922 - 1996

12.75 Linear feet (26 boxes)

Scope and Contents: This series primarily consists of published materials on subjects or people of interest to Murra. It includes newspaper clippings, magazine articles, conference and journal papers, research and grant proposals and handwritten notes by Murra about books or other publications written by a certain individual or about a certain topic. The folders in this series often contain publications that individuals personally sent Murra (e.g., a student or colleague requesting comments on a draft or sending a final copy as a gesture of appreciation) or biographical information he collected about an individual (e.g., an obituary). An occasional piece of correspondence or photograph may also be found in this series.

The series is organized alphabetically by subject title and individual or organization name. Many of the individual names listed below are identical to those found in Series I -- Correspondence. Given the polyglot nature of this collection, the archivist has tried to retain and/or denote the appropriate accent marks in folder titles. Many of the correspondents from Spanish speaking countries have two surnames: the first from their father, the second from their mother. Their names are listed alphabetically by their father's name and where known the mother's name is include thereafter (e.g., Rodríguez Suy Suy, Ant. [Victor Antonio]). Items are filed chronologically with undated materials at back of folder. Multiple folders are mostly indicated by indentation and in a few cases by parenthesis (e.g., (3 folders)). Oversized materials are stored separately from their folders, which are indicated with the label [Oversize].

Series 7: Graduate School and Teaching, 1936 - 1982

2.5 Linear feet (5 boxes)

Scope and Contents: The materials in this series are among the oldest in the collection and the first to be acquired by the Smithsonian Institution in 1982. The series primarily consists of reading and class notes taken by Murra while he was a student at the University of Chicago and class syllabi and lecture materials for the classes Murra later taught at a number of institutions. The materials in this series also include Murra's exam books as a student, newspaper clippings, class handouts, and exams given by Murra to his students. An occasional piece of correspondence and publications appear in these files. Among the most notable items in this series are Murra's preparatory work for admission to the Ph.D. program at the University of Chicago and in particular two pages of handwritten comments by F. C. Cole on these efforts (see [University of Chicago]—Hopewell—Ph.D. Project in Archaeology). His notes from the seminar he co-directed with Angel Palerm in Mexico in 1972 are also in this series. The folder Student Voice is unique in that it is not a folder containing Murra's teaching materials, but rather a folder of newspaper and magazine clippings about student unrest in the United States and France in the late 1960s.

The folders in this series are organized alphabetically by subject or institution. Where known with certainty the archivist has grouped folders alphabetically by subject under the institution at which the materials were created. Similarly, the archivist has placed materials in chronological order where possible. In instances where most or all of the materials were undated, the original order of the materials was maintained. The most notable examples are [Anthropology] 201 --Several Mixed Up Versions Needs Reworking, in which some of the materials were folded up inside a manila folder that was itself inside a manila folder, and [Miscellaneous Class Materials and Lecture Notes]. The oldest documents in this series are among the most fragile in the collection. Consequently some of these documents have preservation photocopies and/or have been placed between two pieces of acid-free archival paper for better support and protection. The preservation photocopies appear in the folders with the originals. The archivist has also employed wrappers and papermarkers made from acid-free archival paper in some instances to better distinguish groups of notecards or lectures. The restricted folder contains confidential information concerning individual students (e.g. social security numbers, course grades).

Additional materials relating to Murra's time in graduate school and his academic teaching may be found in Series I --Correspondence (most often under the name of an academic institution) and in Series V --Subject and Publications (most often under the subject title to one Murra's research interests).

Series 9: Photographs, 1937 - 1988

0.25 Linear feet (1 box)

Scope and Contents: The photographs and slides that make up this small series touch upon many aspects of Murra's life and career. Some of the photographic materials capture his teaching and research interests over several decades. Others are personal photographs of former students and colleagues and their families and even a copy of Murra's passport photograph in 1937. Photographic materials are also interspersed throughout other parts of the collection, most notably in Series I --Correspondence and Series V --Subject and Publications.

Almost all of the photographic materials in this series arrived at the Smithsonian Institution organized and labeled by David Block with Post-it notes under the heading Fotos. The archivist retained this organization for those items and has included the literal text of the Post-it notes in the inventory for description. There were no Fotos 1 or Fotos 6 Post-it notes. Fotos 2 through 7 referred to groups of photographs that merited their own folders. Fotos 8 through 16 tended to be individual miscellaneous photographs which for space purposes are all in the same folder. For preservation purposes, the Post-it notes have been photocopied onto archival acid-free paper that has been placed alongside the sleeved photograph(s) or slide(s) they identify. The folder titles for photographs outside of the fotos schema came from Post-it notes, containers or labels on the reverse of the photographs. The archivist has indicated the number of images in a group by placing the number in parenthesis after the folder title. The last three photographs are housed in the same folder for space purposes. The last photograph in this series did not come from Murra. It was kept by the Smithsonian Institution, at which Murra was a visiting research fellow from 1966 to 1967.

Series 8: J.V.M. Publications, 1959 - 1993

1.25 Linear feet (3 boxes )

Scope and Contents: This series mostly contains the drafts or copies of Murra's publications or public remarks. It also contains reviews by Murra and reviews of his work. Some correspondence also appears in the folders, most notably in [Economic Organization of the Inca State, Romanian Translation]—Ata, 1978-1988 and n.d. An accounting book or register is included in folder two of [Visita de la Provincia de León de Huánuco en 1562]—[Inigo] Ortiz I Publication, 65-67, 1965-1967 and n.d. Copies of Murra's publications and public remarks also appear in other series, most notably in Series I --Correspondence and Series VII --Graduate School and Teaching and copies of two maps used in his publications may be found in Series XI --Maps.

The folders in this series are organized alphabetically often by the title of a publication. Items are filed chronologically with undated materials at back of folder.

Series 10: Audio Visual Materials, 1964 - 1998

1 Linear foot (2 boxes)

Scope and Contents: This final series includes VHS tapes (transferred to Human Studies Film Archives in 2008), 5 and 8 inch audio reels, and cassette tapes. Most of these items are housed in their original containers, which in many instances provide distinctive information about the recording. In the inventory below the archivist has listed the type and brand name of the recording materials to help distinguish items. The titles come from either the containers in which the materials are housed and/or Post-it notes written by David Block, who listened to and noted the content and audibility of the cassette tapes. His notes on the cassette tapes are indicated in square brackets []. The Post-it notes have been photocopied for preservation purposes and the photocopies have been placed with the cassette tape(s) to which they are relevant and in the processing folder for this collection.

Series 11: Maps, 1927 - 1998

1 Map (case folder)

Scope and Contents: This series consists of maps from the 2003 and 2008 accretions of Murra's collection. Two of the items appear to be copies of maps used in Murra's publications. One item relates to a project Murra worked on with Gordon Hadden. The descriptions below were taken directly from Post-it notes placed on each item by David Block, who assisted Murra in sending the last installment of the collection to the Smithsonian Institution. Photocopies of the Post-it notes may be found in the archivist's folder of processing notes. Most of the maps from 2008 accretion are of excavation sites in Huanuco, Peru.

Accretions

Scope and Contents: Additional materials sent to the NAA by David Block in 2008. many of these materials suffered water damage prior to their transfer to the archives and show signs of inactive mold growth. Preservation copies were made of the documents with more serious signs of mold, and the originals were discarded. These photocopies are in Box 2. Maps from 2008 accretion can be found in Series IX- Maps.
