Collection Overview

Repository:	National Anthropological Archives
Title:	Carol Kramer papers
Date:	1943-2002, bulk 1961-2002
Identifier:	NAA.2006-14
Creator:	Kramer, Carol, 1943-2002
Extent:	31 Linear feet (64 boxes, 2 cassette tapes, 1 oversize box, 1 map drawer)
Language:	English .
Summary:	The bulk of these papers document the professional life of Carol Kramer, a leading figure in ethnoarchaeology, specializing in the Middle East and South Asia. She was also a major advocate for the professional development of women in anthropology and archaeology. Dating 1943-2002, the collection includes field notes, writings, correspondence, daily planners, teaching files, photographs, sound recordings, maps, computer disks, and botanical specimens. Her ethnoarchaeological research in "Shahabad" (a.k.a. "Aliabad") in Iran and in Rajasthan, India is well-represented in the collection.

Administrative Information

Acquisition Information

These papers were donated to the National Anthropological Archives by Carol Kramer's sister, Laura Kramer.

Processing Note

The papers of Carol Kramer were received partially organized. The processing archivist kept existing groupings and arrangement and organized the collection into 15 series. Original folder titles were retained with titles assigned by the archivist placed within square brackets. Materials with student grades and social security numbers were separated and have been restricted. Items separated from folders due to restrictions and preservation reasons were replaced with a separation sheet providing a description and new location of the items. Separation sheets were also filed with separated items to indicate original locations.

The processing archivist would like to thank Lee Horne for her assistance in identifying and providing information on items in the collections. Her notes (signed and dated) can be found throughout the collection.

Carol Kramer was a leading figure in ethnoarchaeology, specializing in the Middle East and South Asia. She was also a major advocate for the professional development of women in anthropology and archaeology.

She was born on May 3, 1943 in New York City to Aaron Kramer, a poet and professor of English at Dowling College, and Katherine Kolodny Kramer, a social worker. She attended the High School of Music and Art and earned her B.A. at the City University of New York in 1964. Kramer initially studied archaeology in the graduate program at the University of Chicago, but transferred to the University of Pennsylvania after a year, where she earned her doctorate in 1971. Her dissertation was entitled "The Habur Ware Ceramic Assemblage of Northern Mesopotamia: An Analysis of its Distribution."

In 1968, she was a site supervisor for University of Pennsylvania and Metropolitan Museum of Art's joint archaeological excavations at Dinkha Tepe and Se Girdan, Iran as part of the Hasanlu Project, directed by Robert H. Dyson, Jr. She also served as site supervisor (1967, 1969) and Assistant Director (1971, 1973) for the Royal Ontario Museum's archaeological excavation at Godin Tepe, known as the Godin Project, which was directed by Louis D. Levine and T. Cuyler Young, Jr. In 1970, she conducted her first ethnoarchaeological fieldwork under Ruben Reina, working with an urban potter in Antigua, Guatemala.

Kramer returned to Iran in 1975 to conduct ethnoarchaeological research in a Kurdish village in the Hamadān Province. Her work there resulted in several papers, including "An Archaeological View of a Contemporary Kurdish Village: Domestic Architecture, Household Size, and Wealth," published in Ethnoarchaeology: Implications of Ethnography for Archaeology (1979), which she edited. She expanded upon her paper in her 1982 book, Village Ethnoarchaeology: Rural Iran in Archaeological Perspective.

For her next project, she intended to study pottery communities in Iran, but the outbreak of the Iranian Revolution forced her to change her plans, and she decided to shift her location to India. In 1980 and 1982-1984, she studied ceramic production and distribution in Rajasthan. Articles produced from her research include "Ceramics in Two Indian Cities" (1991), "Ceramics in Rajasthan: Distribution and Scalar Variation" (1992), "A Tale of Two Cities: Ceramic Ethnoarchaeology in Rajasthan" (1994), and "Social and Locational Contexts of Ceramic Distribution in Rajasthan" (1995). She also authored Pottery in Rajasthan: Ethnoarchaeology in Two Indian Cities, published in 1997.

Kramer returned to the field in 1995, serving as site supervisor for archaeological excavations in Gordion, Turkey. She returned the next year to explore the possibility of conducting research in Yassihöyük and other villages near Gordion as an extension of her village ethnoarchaeology research in Iran.

In 2001, Kramer further contributed to the field of ethnoarchaeology with the publication of Ethnoarchaeology in Action, which she co-wrote with Nicholas David. The landmark book is the first comprehensive study of ethnoarchaeology.

In addition to her work in ethnoarchaeology, Kramer was also involved in promoting the professional advancement of women in anthropology. In 1980, Kramer and her colleagues (Roger Sanjek, Rayna Rapp, Carole Vance, and Glenn Peterson) drew up a resolution to implement the 1972 Resolution on Fair Practices in Employment of Women. They campaigned to raise funds and support for the resolution, which called for the American Anthropological Association (AAA) to censure universities that hired or promoted a low percentage of women. Due to their work, the resolution passed and AAA censured five departments in 1981. In 1988, she and Miriam Stark published, "The Status of Women in Archeology," a study of gender equity in archaeology. They looked at gender differences in the number of graduate students, PhD recipients, and funding recipients as well as in faculty composition. Kramer was also a member of the Committee on the Status of Women in Anthropology (COSWA) from 1973 to 1975 and host and discussion leader at the COSWA Roundtable on professional skills and the female archaeologist at the 1998 annual meeting of the Society for American Archaeology (SAA).

In 1999, Kramer was awarded the Squeaky Wheel Award by COSWA in recognition of her contributions to equity for women in anthropology. She also delivered the 1994 Distinguished Lecture to the Archaeology Section for the AAA, "The Quick and the Dead: Ethnography in and for Archaeology." In 2003, she was posthumously awarded the SAA's Award for excellence in Archaeological Analysis.

From 1971 to 1990, Kramer taught at Queens College and later Lehman College and the Graduate Center at the City University of New York, during which time she was a visiting professor at Yale University (1985). She also taught at the University of Arizona (1986-1988) as a recipient of a National Science Foundation Visiting Professorship for Women. In 1990, she joined the faculty of the University of Arizona, where she taught until her death.

Kramer passed away at the age of 59 on December 3, 2002.

Scope and Contents Note

The bulk of these papers document the professional life of Carol Kramer. The collection contains field notes, writings, correspondence, daily planners, teaching files, photographs, sound recordings, maps, computer disks, and botanical specimens. Also in the collection are her notes and grade transcripts as a college and graduate student.

Her ethnoarchaeological research in "Shahabad" (a.k.a. "Aliabad") in Iran and in Rajasthan, India is well-represented in the collection in the form of her notes, maps, writings, and photographs. In addition, there are plant specimens that Kramer collected in Iran. Also among her research files are photocopies of her field notes from her work in Guatemala. Although her field notes from the Hasanlu Project are absent, the collection does contain a few photographs and some notes and correspondence from her research for her article on the Hasanlu Project's excavations at Dalma Tepe. In addition, the collection contains "A System of Pottery Classification According to Shape," a paper by Robert H. Dyson, Jr. and T. Cuyler Young, Jr. for the Hasanlu Project. Materials relating to the Godin Project consist of correspondence from 1996 and 1997 and a 1973 group photo.

Copies of her monographs are present in the collection along with drafts, figures, and correspondence for her published writings and dissertation. Many of the papers that she presented at professional meetings, seminars, and special lectures can also be found in the collection, including her 1994 AAA Distinguished Lecture, "The Quick and the Dead: Ethnography in and for Archaeology." In addition, there are two cassette tape recordings of Kramer presenting her paper, "Ceramics in Two Indian Cities," and the subsequent group discussion at the 1985 School of American Research Advanced Seminar, "Social and Behavioral Sources of Ceramic Variability." Also of special interest are materials documenting her involvement in the 1981 "Resolution to Implement the 1972 American Anthropological Association Resolution on Fair Practices in Employment of Women."

Kramer's professional correspondence is spread throughout the collection, mixed together with other documents, filed by subject. Much of her later correspondence is in the form of e-mail printouts. Letters of reference she wrote can also be found on her computer disks, which consist of several 3.50" and 5.25" floppy disks. Other files on the disks include materials for her books and articles, research data, her performance evaluations files, notes for courses she taught, and her will.

It should be noted that Kramer was briefly married during the 1960s and 1970s to Christopher Hamlin, who was a fellow graduate student at the University of Pennsylvania. Thus, she is referred to as Carol Hamlin in some of the documents from that period.

Arrangement

Arranged into 15 series: (1) Research, 1961-1997; (2) Writings, 1972-2002; (3) Talks, 1972-1999; (4) Grants/Fellowships, 1974-2000; (5) Professional Activities, 1966-2002; (6) Teaching, 1971-2002; (7) Student, 1961-1973; (8) Personal, 1943-2001; (9) Writings by Others, 1949-2001; (10) Photographs, 1967-1996; (11) Card Files; (12) Maps; (13) Botanical Specimens; (14) Sound Recordings, 1985; (15) Computer Disks

Container Listing

Series 1: Research, 1961-1997 (bulk 1969-1986)

10 Linear feet

Scope and Contents: This series contains field notes, genealogy charts, data analysis, correspondence and other research notes associated with Kramer's fieldwork in Iran, India, Guatemala, and Turkey. Other materials in the series include notes and data from Lee Horne and Rosalind Howell as well as Kramer's notes on writings by others. Her notes on pottery towards the end of Subseries: Iran may be associated with her dissertation. The field notes for Guatemala are only photocopies, and the materials relating to her work in Turkey primarily document her preparations for her trip. Absent from the collection are her field notes from the Godin Project and the Hasanlu Project. This series does contain, however, some correspondence from 1996 and 1997 relating to the Godin Project and notes and correspondence from Kramer's research for her 1975 article on the Hasanlu Project's excavations at Dalma Tepe. Also in this series are letters from her informants and assistants in Iran.

Other materials relating to her fieldwork can be found in Series 4. Grants/Fellowships, Series 10. Photographs, Series 12. Maps, and Series 13. Botanical Specimens.

Arrangement: This series is arranged in 4 subseries: 1.1 Guatemala; 1.2 Iran; 1.3 India; 1.4 Turkey.

Series 2: Writings, 1972 - 2002

2.78 Linear feet

Scope and Contents: This series contains drafts and published copies of Kramer's articles and books. Also in the series are correspondence and figures for her publications, reviews of her books (filed under Subseries: Monographs), and reviews she wrote for publication (Subseries: Reviews). Under Subseries: Journal is a copy of "Ethnoarchaeology," a special issue of Expeditions, which she edited with W. A. Longacre. Subseries: Miscellaneous contains letters, e-mails, and tables for unidentified publications and lists of her publications sent to colleagues. Folders are arranged chronologically by publication date.

Most of her research notes for her articles and books are filed under Series 1. Research. Papers she presented can be found in Series 3. Talks, while her dissertation is filed under Series 7. Students. More figures for her publications can be found in Series 10. Photographs.

Arrangement: This series is arranged in 5 subseries: 2.1 Monographs; 2.2 Journal; 2.3 Articles; 2.4 Reviews; 2.5 Miscellaneous.

Series 10: Photographs, 1967 - 1996

4.13 Linear feet

- Scope and Contents: This series is comprised of prints, negatives, 35mm slides, and notes on her photographs. Most of the images are from her field work in Iran and India. There are two notebooks in this series, one containing notes on her Seh Gabi contact prints and the other on some of her India photos. Most of the 35mm slides are labeled by Kramer. A 1973 group photo of the Godin Project can be found in "[Various group photos of Kramer and colleagues]" under Subseries: Prints, while images from the Hasanlu Project are under Subseries: 35mm Slides in "[Iran]." There are also 35mm slides of Gordion excavations and of Yassihöyük. Additional photographs include figures for her publications as well as some personal photographs. This series also contains photos by Bill Sumner, Lee Horne, Pat Mason, and Michael Schiffer. Negatives filed with prints have been separated for preservation reasons.
- Arrangement: This series has been arranged in 4 subseries: 1.1 Notes; 1.2 Prints; 1.3 35mm Slides; 1.4 Negatives.
