Administrative Information

Acquisition Information

The collection was donated to the National Anthropological Archives by Owen Lynch's niece, Maureen Murphy, in 2013.

Processing Information

The organization of the papers of Owen M. Lynch has for the most part been retained. Original folder titles were used when appropriate. The archivist has used the current name of the city of Mumbai except in instances of use where Bombay is in a formal title. A small amount of duplicates, photocopied articles, blank disks, financial documents, and widely available publications have been removed.

The archivist has assigned numbers to the negatives and sets of slides in the photographs series, and to each sound recording in the sound recordings series.

Processed and encoded by Adam Fielding, 2015.

Owen M. Lynch was an anthropologist and scholar with New York University who was noted for his pioneering work with the Dalits, or "Untouchables," in India. He was born in 1931 in Flushing, New York. He earned his bachelor's degree from Fordham University (1956) and his Ph.D in anthropology from Columbia University (1966). He began his teaching career in 1966 as an assistant professor at the State University of New York at Binghamton. He became the Charles F. Noyes Professor Emeritus of Urban Anthropology at New York University in 1974 where he remained until his retirement in 2003.

His first fieldwork experience was with the Munda Languages Project in Madhya Pradesh, India, in 1962. His involvement with the project centered around work with the Nihali and Nahali languages. In 1963, he began fieldwork among the Dalits in Agra. He worked with the Jatavs, many of whom were shoemakers. This fieldwork would evolve into his dissertation, and form the basis for his first book The Politics of Untouchability, published in 1969. He continued to study the Dalits and other marginalized peoples in India, including the Dharavi slums in Mumbai, Chaube Brahmans in Mathura, and the Radhavallabhi sect in Brindaban. He wrote extensively about the impact of Dalit leader B.R. Ambedkar, as well as the intersections of Buddhism, politics, and economics within India and the Dalit community.

Lynch was active in numerous anthropological associations. Among other professional appointments, he served on the editorial boards of South Asian Social Scientist (1984-1987), the Association of Asian Studies (1973-1977), and the International Journal of Hindu Studies (1997-2013); he was chair of the South Asia Council of the Association for Asian Studies (1985-1988) and president of the Society for Urban, National and Transnational Anthropology (1996-1998). He was also involved with groups such as the Volunteers in Service to India's Oppressed and Neglected (VISION), and was an active participant on conference panels and symposiums. He retired from teaching in 2003, and died in 2013.

Scope and Contents

The papers of Owen M. Lynch document his research and field work in India, and in particular highlight his work among the Dalits in Agra. The collection consists of field notes, surveys, interviews, maps, drawings, manuscript notes and drafts, language materials, subject files, day planners, correspondence, university papers, conference symposium and panel materials, photographs, sound recordings, video recordings, and electronic records. The Munda Languages Project was Lynch's first fieldwork experience in India and focused on the Nihali and Nahali languages. His subsequent research focused on the Dalits in Agra, the Dharavi slums of Mumbai, the Chaube Brahmins in Mathura, and the Radhavallabhi sect in Brindaban. This research is represented well in his field notes, photographs, and sound recordings.

Lynch also kept extensive subject files on numerous Indian issues which contain significant material on the Dalits, Indian economics and politics, and related researchers. There is a small amount of Lynch's university papers from both his time as a student and as a professor. His student material includes reading notes, his student papers, and dissertation proposal. His university papers are chiefly course and lecture notes. The bulk of the photographs are from Lynch's fieldwork, primarily from Agra and Mumbai. Included are photos of slums in Agra and Mumbai, shoemakers in Agra, weddings, ceremonies, conferences, and parades. There are also prints used in his first book The Politics of Untouchability. The presentation slides are thematically arranged sets of photographs, presumably used for course lectures or conference presentations. The majority of the sound recordings are from fieldwork in Agra in 1994-1995, and include lectures, interviews, conference recordings, and songs.

Series 1: Research, 1956-2006

6.3 Linear feet

This series contains Lynch's research files which chiefly relate to his fieldwork. It consists of field notes, surveys, transcripts, language materials, correspondence, and reports from his fieldwork in Madhya Pradesh, Agra, Mumbai, Mathura, and Brindaban. The Munda Languages Project was Lynch's first fieldwork experience in India. Much of this material relates to the Nihali and Nahali languages, and includes vocabulary lists, language analyses, and field notes. His other research focuses on the Dalits in Agra, the Dharavi slums of Mumbai, the Radhavallabhi sect in Brindaban, and the Chaube Brahmans in Mathura. The bulk of the files for these research topics are field notes, surveys and questionnaires, and interview transcripts.

This series is arranged chronologically into 7 subseries.

1.1 Munda Language Project, Madhya Pradesh, India, 1962-circa 1965; 1.2 Dalits in Agra, India, 1956-1967; 1.3 Squatters in Mumbai, India, 1965-1971; 1.4 Pilgrimage and Chaube Brahmans in Mathura, India, 1980-1985; 1.5 Radhavallabhi Sect in Brindaban, India, 1988-1989; 1.6 Dalits in Agra, India, 1994-1995, 1999, 2004; 1.7 Unidentified fieldwork, 1999-2006.

Series 6: Correspondence, 1947-2010, undated

0.42 Linear feet

This series contains the correspondence of Owen Lynch. Much of the correspondence consists of Lynch's letters to his family written while conducting fieldwork in Madhya Pradesh and Agra. Recipients are his mother, Mary E. Lynch, along with Mary Jane Lynch, Thomas and Betty Dowling, and George and Marth McCormack. Also included is correspondence with Madhumaya Jayant, as well as with copies of letters to her from her husband Ghanshyam Jayant. Much of the general correspondence is with Lynch's peers and contacts in India.

Correspondence is arranged alphabetically by name. Some letters are in what is likely Hindi.

Series 10: Photographs, circa 1940s-circa 2009, undated

12.47 Linear feet

The bulk of the photographs are from Lynch's fieldwork in India. Personal photographs depict Lynch with family and friends, often at holiday gatherings, weddings, and vacations. Lynch's fieldwork photographs contain images primarily from Agra and Mumbai. Included are images of slums in Agra and Mumbai, shoemakers in Agra, weddings, ceremonies, conferences, and parades. There are also prints used in his first book The Politics of Untouchability. The carousel slides are thematically arranged sets of photographs, presumably used for course lectures or conference presentations.

The majority of the photographs are 35mm color slides. Additionally, there are negatives, 35mm negatives, and color and black and white prints. The negatives and sets of slides have been assigned a number in brackets by the archivist.

The photographs are arranged chronologically into 3 subseries.

10.1 Personal, circa 1940s-2006; 10.2 Fieldwork in India, circa 1962-circa 2009; 10.3 Presentation Slides, 1963-1999 and undated

Series 11: Sound Recordings, 1962-2006

4.59 Linear feet (132 sound recordings)

This series contains Lynch's sound recordings, the bulk of which are from his fieldwork. The recordings appear to primarily contain interviews, lectures, and songs. There are recordings from the Munda Languages Project focused on the Nihali and Nahali language, and include numerous songs. The majority of fieldwork recordings are from Agra in 1994-1995. Included are lectures, interviews, and conference recordings, and songs. There are also several interviews with Dalit activist Madhumaya Jayant. These recordings appear to have a numbering system devised by Lynch, and those numbers are reflected in the recording titles. The university related sound recordings appear to be chiefly interviews and course lectures. The commercial sound recordings include commercially produced lectures and Indian music.

The sound recordings are arranged chronologically. Information on the box and tape labels has been transcribed, however some of the handwriting is illegible. The archivist has assigned an item number to each recording.

The sound recordings have been arranged into three subseries. 11.1 Field Recordings, 1962-2006; 11.2 University Lectures, Interviews, Exams, and Unlabelled, 1996-circa 2006; 11.3 Commercial Recordings, circa 1970-circa 2002

Use of archival audiovisual recordings with no duplicate access copy requires advance notice.
