Administrative Information

Acquisition Information

These papers were donated to the National Anthropological Archives by Robert Levy's wife, Nerys Levy, in 2014.

Processing Information

The series delineated in this collection are based on the original order and groupings of the materials upon their arrival at this institution. Original folder titles were used where appropriate. Please note that Levy was not consistent in his spelling of informant names across all materials. The archivist picked the spelling that was most prevalent to describe the materials within this finding aid and attempted to note spelling variations and abbreviations where applicable.

Robert I. Levy was a professor in the Anthropology Department at the University of California, San Diego (UCSD) from 1969 until his retirement in 1991 who was known for his ground breaking work in psychological anthropology. Born in 1924 in New York, New York, he originally trained in medicine and psychiatry (M.D. Degree, New York University, 1947). Levy was lured into anthropology in the early 1960s by Douglas Oliver to work on a field project in Tahiti. Levy spent a total of 26 months from 1961-1964 conducting research in Tahiti focused on aspects of Tahitian culture and psychological organization. The resulting book Tahitians: Mind and Experience in the Society Islands (1973) was selected as a finalist for the National Book Award. Levy went on to complete field work in Nepal in the traditional Hindu city of Bhaktapur, from 1973-1976 conducting research on social organization, culture, and their psychological correlates. The culmination of his research, Mesocosm: Hinduism and the Organization of a Traditional Newar City in Nepal, was published in 1990.

Prior to joining the faculty at UCSD, Levy was a senior scholar at the East-West Center, a research associate at the Bishop Museum, and a professor at the University of Hawaii, all in Honolulu. He was also the associate editor of ETHOS from 1971-1979 and received fellowships at the Center for Advanced Study in Behavioral Sciences in Palo Alto, CA (1985-1986) and the National Humanities Center in Research Triangle Park, NC (1990-1991). After his retirement from UCSD in 1991 Levy was appointed a Research Professor of Anthropology at both the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill and Duke University. He died in 2003 in Asolo, Italy.

Scope and Contents

The Robert I. Levy papers document his field work, research and professional activities from 1949-2001 and primarily deal with his work studying social organization, culture and their psychological effects in Tahiti and Nepal. The collection consists of correspondence, field notes, sound recordings of interviews with informants in Tahiti and Nepal, interview transcripts and analyses, language and culture research materials, maps, and color slides.

The correspondence includes Levy's thoughts on his first field work experience in Tahiti from 1961-1964 along with extensive correspondence with Levy's cousin, anthropologist Roy Rappaport, in the same time period. Interview transcripts from Tahiti are written in Tahitian with Levy's notes in English. Transcripts from Nepal are in Newar (Devanagari script) with English translations. Full transcripts in both languages are not always present. Research materials comprise documents Levy gathered before and after his periods of field work and include extensive analyses of psychological terms in Tahitian and Newar. The color slides depict adults, children, daily activities, rituals, and some landscapes in Tahiti and Nepal.

Also included in this collection are files about his books, articles, essays, and lectures; course materials from his time as a professor at the University of California, San Diego (UCSD); and conference files.

Container Listing

Series 1: Tahiti, 1959-1964, 1970, undated

7.42 Linear feet

Scope and Contents: Series 1 consists of materials from 1959-1964, 1970 and undated related to Levy's first field work experience in Tahiti from 1961-1964. This includes correspondence, field notes, interview outlines, transcripts, and sound recordings, and language and culture research materials.

The correspondence consists of incoming and outgoing letters and topics covered include trip planning, logistics, and Levy's thoughts on his first field work experience. There is extensive correspondence with Levy's cousin, anthropologist Roy Rappaport, who was working in Papua New Guinea in the same time period. This series contains 60 sound cassettes and 2 sound cartridges (Midgetape) of interviews with Tahitian informants. Interview transcripts exist primarily in Tahitian with Levy's notes in English. Research materials comprise documents Levy gathered before and after his period of field work and cover historical, behavioral and linguistic topics. There is significant analyses of psychological terms in the Tahitian language.

For materials relating directly to the book Tahitians, please see Series 3.1. For photographic material, please see Series 4.

Series 3: Professional activities, 1947-2001, undated

6.5 Linear feet

Arrangement: This series is arranged in 7 subseries: 3.1 Books, 1971-1995, undated; 3.2 Articles, essays, and lectures, circa 1960-1999, undated; 3.3 Course materials, 1968-1997, undated; 3.4 Conference participation, 1965-1988, undated; 3.5 Early work, 1949-1959, undated; 3.6 Materials by others, 1967, 1982-1999, undated; 3.7 Academic appointments, proposals, committees, 1967-1968, 1988-1997, undated.

Scope and Contents: This series, dated 1949-2001, undated is comprised of materials relating to Levy's academic and professional output over the course of his career. This primarily consists of files about his books, articles, essays, lectures; course materials from his time as a professor at the University of California, San Diego (UCSD); and conference files.

The book files include correspondence with publishers and reviews and press for Tahitians; drafts, correspondence, and photographs for Mesocosm; and notes, outlines and analyses for Microcosm, a planned second volume about Nepal that was never completed. Notes, drafts, and published copies of articles and essays are included in this series, along with copies of lectures. Two sound cassettes of a lecture from 1983 are present in this series. There is a contingent of early work, from Levy's time as a psychiatrist, that deals with psychiatric and psychological topics. The course files include lecture notes, syllabi, and other planning materials. Also included in this series is a minimal amount of material by others that Levy might have been reviewing or using for research, along with a few files on academic appointments and committees.

Subseries 3.1: Books, 1971-1995, undated

Arrangement: The materials in this subseries are divided by book.

Scope and Contents: This subseries includes correspondence with publishers and reviews and press for Tahitians; drafts, correspondence, and photographs for Mesocosm; and notes, outlines and analyses for Microcosm, a second volume about Nepal that was never completed.
