Administrative Information

Provenance

An inscription in the volume, by Samuel E. Strong, M. D., Desloge, St Francis County, Missouri, September 5, 1900, states that the drawings are the work of "Roman Nose, half brother of Red Cloud," and that after Roman Nose's capture in 1866 [?] he gave the book to Augustus Griffith of St Genevieve County, Missouri, who in turn gave it to Strong. Captions under the drawings were made from the explanations of Charles C. White, or Fast Horse, Dakota interpreter at Pine Ridge but then (December 21, 1889) employed with the Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Ironton, Iron County, Missouri. An additional inscription indicates that the book was purchased by the Bureau of American Ethnology from Strong in November 1900. Related correspondence is in the Bureau of American Ethnology records.

Scope and Contents

The collection consists of a ledger book of drawings, now laminated and disbound, with scenes of warfare, horse raiding, and courting. The book contains drawings by multiple artists, probably both Lakota and Cheyenne, based on the events and war medicine depicted, especially shield designs. Inscriptions in the volume give the history of acquisition and identify activities in each scene. However, the identifications are often in error regarding the nature of the scene and the tribal identity of the enemies. An inscription on the final page, NAA INV 11013402, indicates that all explanations were provided by Charles C. White, also known as Fast Horse, former Dakota interpreter at Pine Ridge Agency.

Please note that the contents of the collection and the language and terminology used reflect the context and culture of the time of its creation. As an historical document, its contents may be at odds with contemporary views and terminology and considered offensive today. The information within this collection does not reflect the views of the Smithsonian Institution or National Anthropological Archives, but is available in its original form to facilitate research.
