Biographical / Historical

Elder Lightfoot Solomon Michaux was born on November 7, 1884, to John and May Blanche Michaux in Newport News, Virginia. He worked in the family seafood business and expanded it through government contracts to supply food during World War I. At the conclusion of the war, he began to preach, first establishing a mission in Hopewell, VA, near Fort Lee before returning to Newport News with his wife. They founded the Church of God in 1919 and held services in a tent before purchasing a building at the corner of 18th and Jefferson Streets for the newly-incorporated Gospel Spreading Tabernacle Building Association in 1921.

Over the next several years, Elder Michaux became a pioneer evangelist, using new technologies to spread the gospel. He continued to hold tent meetings in Newport News and Hampton, and introduced radio broadcasts, first in Newport News over a portable station in the 1920s and from a bus in Alexandria, Virginia in 1929. He created the Radio Church of God as a worldwide ministry to enable domestic and international audiences to hear the Gospel while still in their homes. By then he had become known as "The Happy Am I Preacher," so named after his chosen theme song. Eventually, Michaux began televising his services on the DuMont Television Network, becoming the first African American television evangelist.

In addition to his radio and television evangelism, Elder Michaux founded the "Good Neighbor League" in Washington DC as a social welfare service to the community, providing housing to renters who had been evicted, and eventually purchasing and running a restaurant known as the "Happy News Café" feeding patrons who could not otherwise afford meals at a low-cost. His presence in the nation's capital also made possible the development of a 594-unit housing complex, Mayfair Mansions, designed by African American architect Albert Cassell, funded by a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and completed in 1946.

Scope and Contents

The collection contains 141 digitized 1/4" open reel audio tapes originally recorded in the 1950s and 1960s. The recordings consist of radio broadcasts and services from the various branches of the Church of God. The sermons are largely given by the church's founder, Elder Lightfoot Solomon Michaux, who also hosts the radio broadcasts. Choral gospel music is prominently featured throughout the recordings. The subjects of the sermons given by Elder Michaux and guest preachers cover a wide variety of topics related to biblical interpretation, liturgy, and contemporary events.

Arrangement

The collection is arranged at the item-level with each record corresponding to an individual audio recording. The original 1/4 inch open reel audio tapes were not organized according to any established system that can be reflected in the finding aid, as such the records are ordered based upon their original inventory number.
