Administrative Information

Acquisition Information

Collection donated by the Princeton University Library in 1963 and 1967.

Available Formats

Posters digitized and available online through the finding aid.

Processing Information

Collection processed by Archives Center staff, 1991; 2018-2019.

Staff from the Digitization Program Office's Mass Digitization (Mass Digi) team, the National Museum of American History, and the Transcription Center worked together to digitize over 10,000 Princeton Posters' catalog sheets and import them into the Transcription Center as new projects. Created in the 1990's, these sheets contain information on when each poster was produced, what issuing organization created it, what language or languages it is written in, the content and topic of the poster, and more. Over a few months, 381 "volunpeers" transcribed all the data on each catalog sheet, recording this important information in record time. Alongside this work, the Mass Digi team collaborated with NMAH's Archives Center and the Division of Political and Military History, to digitize all of the posters themselves (totaling more than 18,000).

Digitization of the posters was completed by Creekside Digital, 2018-2019.

Biographical / Historical

The Princeton University Library donated this extensive collection of World War I and World War II materials to the Smithsonian Institution in 1963 and 1967. The bulk of the 1963 donation, stored in six large wooden crates, was sent to an off site storage location. Other posters donated in 1963, primarily World War II British in origin, were stored in the Division of Political History; they were later transferred to the Division of Armed Forces History. In 1967, Princeton donated an additional five albums of posters that had been overlooked in 1963; these albums were also stored in the Division of Armed Forces History.

In 1990 and again in 1991, the NMAH Division of Conservation was awarded Smithsonian Research Resources grants to conserve and catalog the collection. The posters in the crates were in extremely precarious condition, evidencing extensive tears, water damage, dirt, mold, and insect damage. Their condition was so extreme that handling, cataloging, or mere counting was not deemed possible outside of a major rehousing project. In 1992, the NMAH Archives Center assumed curatorial responsibility for the collection and took over direction of the project.

Scope and Contents

Primarily war-related posters.

 At Dawn and Dark With thanks for each new morn, / That there is born / New life, new hope, new day, / And a new way - / With smiles for sunlit or beclouded skies - / So let me rise. / With thanks when day is done, / That sleep is won - / That something has been spent /
 To good intent, / And something gained of good, if not the best - / So let me rest. A.L. Salmon
