Biographical / Historical

Floyd Levin (1922 - 2007) was a Los Angeles textile manufacturer who turned his passion for jazz into a second, contemporaneous, career as an influential jazz journalist and historian. His numerous reviews, profiles, and articles were published in magazines such as Down Beat, Jazz Journal International, Metronome, and American Rag. He also authored Classic Jazz: A Personal View of the Music and the Musicians (University of California Press, 2000), which –like his articles – chronicled his first-hand encounters with countless jazz musicians. In 1949, he co-founded the Southern California Hot Jazz Society, the second-oldest jazz appreciation club in the country. Levin led the drive to create the Louis Armstrong Park and statue in New Orleans in the 1970s. During his career, he conducted scores of oral history interviews with jazz musicians, which he donated to NMAH and to Tulane University's jazz archive. He received several awards for his work, including the Leonard Feather Communicator Award, given annually by the Los Angeles Jazz Society. Levin died in 2007.

Scope and Contents

Research materials on jazz, jazz artists, jazz festivals and jazz organizations compiled by Levin over several decades. The richest portion is the series of biographical files on jazz artists, with emphasis on lesser known but influential artists, and includes such things as obituaries, memorial programs, press releases, concert programs, and newsletters. Photographs are also widely found in this series, many of them inscribed to, or taken with Levin and his wife Lucille, as well as posters, recordings, letters and other correspondence, awards and plaques, Levin's writings, business cards, newspaper articles, advertisements, and miscellaneous ephemeral items. Artists who are strongly represented include one-time Ellington Orchestra clarinetist "Barney" (Albany Leon) Bigard, who was a close personal friend of the Levins and whose personal papers are in the collection; Louis Armstrong; "Jelly Roll" (Ferdinand Lemott) Morton; "Wild" Bill Davison; "Duke" (Edward Kennedy) Ellington; Joe Darensbourg; Edward Bertram "Montudie" Garland; "Kid" (Edward) Ory; "Eubie" (James Herbert) Blake; and "Rosy" (James) McHargue.

Series 5: Artists Files, 1880 - 2010, undated

This series is the largest, and most significant, series within the collection. It is divided into three subseries: 5.1, General Materials, 1880-2010, undated; 5.2, Obituaries, 1941-2004; and 5.3, Interviews, 1969-2001, which make up the bulk of Floyd Levin's extensive collection related to individual jazz artists, though more materials related to any given artist may be found dispersed through the collection's other series. This series contains a large number of photographs, both taken by and acquired by Floyd Levin, newspaper articles, oral history transcripts, personal and professional correspondence, personal papers, and other ephemera related to jazz artists both obscure and internationally recognized. The collection documents other closely related musical genres including blues, and swing. Subseries 5.1, General Materials, 1880-2010, undated, is arranged alphabetically by the name of the artist as created and maintained by Levin. Subseries 5.2, Obituaries, 1941-2004, is arranged in the chronological order that Levin created and includes material written by him and other renowned jazz experts for mainstream and general publications. Subseries 5.3, Interviews, 1969-2001, is arranged in alphabetical order by the name of the artist.

Subseries 5.1: General Materials, 1880 - 2010, undated

This subseries is the single largest portion of the collection. While the majority of these materials consist of photographs, (many inscribed to or taken with Floyd and Lucille Levin), newspaper articles, reviews, concert programs, and other materials useful for research are also within this subseries. There are general marketing materials; photographic negatives, slides and transparencies; correspondence of all kinds; biographical accounts and even personal documents such as copies of birth and death certificates of jazz artists. Other ephemera, some of which is three-dimensional, includes photocopies of record covers, memorabilia from jazz concerts and events, and the personal belongings of such legendary artists as "Barney" (Albany Leon) Bigard, Louis Armstrong and "Duke" (Edward Kennedy) Ellington.

This subseries also reflects the longstanding personal relationships Floyd Levin formed with many of the artists found in the collection, among them, "Barney" (Albany Leon) Bigard; Louis Armstrong; Joe Darensbourg; "Wild" Bill Davis and his wife, Anne Stewart Davis; "Montudie" (Edward Bertram) Garland and "Rosy" (James) McHargue. Personal correspondence, photographs and ephemera from private events demonstrate the dynamic social activities the Levins enjoyed within the jazz scene. Those artists with whom Levin was personally acquainted are also some of the best represented within this series, along with other notable jazz musicians and composers such as "Jelly Roll" (Ferdinand Lemott) Morton, Milt Hinton, and "Duke" (Edward Kennedy) Ellington. While Levin's collection is also remarkable in that it documents lesser-known jazz artists, particularly in and around California, it suffers from a significant lack of information on female jazz musicians. Materials on such influential artists as Billie Holiday, Ella Fitzgerald, Dinah Washington, and Bessie Smith, among others, are much more limited.

This subseries is arranged alphabetically by artist or band name, followed by a collection of photographs of artists for which Levin had minimal materials, arranged by the first letter of their last name or band name. Following these are photographs and negatives of unidentified artists, and photographs and slides which feature multiple musicians.

Subseries 5.2: Obituaries, 1941 - 2004

Contains Levin's personal log of the deaths of jazz musicians as well as the obituaries and written tributes he collected. These files, which are arranged in chronological order but overlap in dates, were organized by Levin himself and were thus kept according to his structure.

Box 61, Folder 35            Obituary File, 1971 - 2004

Box 62, Folder 1             Obituary File, 1985 - 1996

Subseries 5.3: Interviews, 1969 - 2001

Contains transcribed oral history interviews with jazz artists conducted by or collected by Floyd Levin. This subseries similarly demonstrates the personal relationships Levin maintained with numerous jazz artists, many of them of great significance. Among the oral histories that he conducted himself are "Barney" (Albany Leon) Bigard's, Dick Cary's, Anne Davison's ("Wild" Bill Davison's wife) and Sammy Lee's. Other oral history interviews that he collected were conducted by other jazz researchers, musicologists and institutions such as the Smithsonian. The transcripts delve into both the careers and personal lives of artists. This subseries is arranged alphabetically by artist name.

Series 6: Subject Files, 1916 - 2004, undated

Contains photographic prints, negatives, slides, newspaper articles, marketing materials, correspondence and personal notes on such disparate topics related to jazz and jazz history as the Palomar Ballroom Fire, jazz museums across the country, the 1976 "A Night in New Orleans" concert series that Levin co-produced, and numerous articles written by jazz critic and book reviewer, Whitney Balliett. Other materials included in this subseries relate to other jazz clubs and venues, the history of jazz in particular cities, photographs by notable jazz photographers, and some limited information on the history of women in jazz. Some photographs and other materials unrelated to jazz, jazz artists or jazz history are also found in this subseries, including information on Pablo Picasso and Ernest Hemingway. This subseries is arranged alphabetically by title.

Series 7: General Materials, 1908 - 2006, undated

The second largest series within the collection and relates to jazz music, jazz festivals and performances, recording studios and producers, and, to a lesser extent, jazz artists. Subseries 1, Business Cards, undated, contains the business cards of jazz artists, producers, critics, jazz club and foundation presidents as well as the cards of personal contacts that Levin acquired over decades in the field. Subseries 2, Ephemera, 1949-2002, undated, contains marketing materials and ephemera that Levin received in the mail as well as at events that he attended. Subseries 3, Fake Book, undated, contains an over 5,000 page book of jazz compositions collected by Charles B. Anderson and given to Floyd Levin. Subseries 4, Jazz Festival and Performance Programs and Posters, 1949-2006, undated, consists of the programs and posters collected by Levin at the numerous concerts he attended, and Subseries 5, Record Producers and Distributors, 1908-1995, undated, documents individuals who worked as producers, as well as for-profit and nonprofit record labels.

Subseries 7.1: Business Cards, undated

Contains hundreds of business cards from jazz artists and instructors, critics, producers, jazz club presidents, and chairmen of jazz foundations that Levin collected over decades in the field. Also included are the business cards of several personal contacts of the Levins as well as Floyd Levin's own business cards. This subseries is not organized alphabetically as the majority were arranged by Levin at random on scrapbook paper.

Subseries 7.2: Ephemera, 1949 - 2002, undated

Contains jazz concert and festival programs held both in America and abroad, brochures and other marketing materials for jazz organizations, as well as other general ephemera such as invitations to events and matchbooks. As materials that Levin received in the mail and at events that he attended, they were kept separately and were not interfiled with other related ephemera in subseries such as Subseries 5.1, Artists Files, General Materials, and Subseries 7.4, Jazz Festival and Performance Programs and Posters, and Series 8, Jazz Organizations and Publications. This subseries is arranged in chronological order.

Subseries 7.3: Fake Book, undated

Contains the over 5,000 page Fake Book originally collected by Charles B. Anderson and includes well over 5,000 songs. Fake Book, or a collection of musical lead sheets intended to help a performer quickly learn and perform new songs, includes the basic melody line, basic chords and occasionally lyrics of the song. As improvisation skills are vital in jazz performance, the utilization of a fake book is crucial for many musicians and is a significant addition to the collection as a whole. Featured composers within this fake book are Louis Armstrong, Irving Berlin, George Gershwin, Hoagy Carmichael, "Duke" (Edward Kennedy) Ellington, among many others. Also included in this subseries is a list of the composer's name of every song Bessie Smith recorded, as found in Edward Brooks's The Bessie Smith Companion: A Critical and Detailed Appreciation of the Recordings. These materials were also collected and passed on to Floyd Levin by Charles B. Anderson. This subseries is arranged chronologically by fake book page number, with a partial index and the Bessie Smith materials at the beginning.

Subseries 7.4: Jazz Festival and Performance Programs and Posters, 1949 - 2006, undated

Contains the numerous programs and posters that Levin collected at various events. Most frequently represented are concerts and festivals around California, specifically Los Angeles, though events held across the country and internationally are also found within this series. Additional materials related to jazz festivals and performances are also located in subseries 7.2, Ephemera, 1949-2002, undated. This subseries is arranged in chronological order.

Series 9: Photographs , 1939 - 2001, undated

Consists of photographic materials including black and white and color prints and negatives taken by Floyd and Lucille Levin at social gatherings with jazz musicians, jazz festivals and concerts, and other events held by jazz organizations of which the Levins were active members. While many remain unidentified, those that are identified document jazz festivals primarily in Los Angeles and New Orleans, including the Southern California Hot Jazz Society and the New Orleans Jazz Festival as well as the opening of exhibitions related to jazz musicians such as "Duke" (Edward Kennedy) Ellington. Also included among the materials are photographs taken at artists' birthday parties, including those of Milt Hinton, "Flip Phillips" (Joseph Edward Filipelli), Abe Lincoln, "Rosy" (James) McHargue, "Spud" (Lyle) Murphy, and Ruby Braff. These photographs and negatives, along with many of the materials found within Series 5, Artists Files, 1880-2010, undated, demonstrate the extent of the Levins's personal relationships and social activities. The materials in this series are arranged in chronological order.

Series 10: Audiovisual Materials, 1964-1997, undated

This series contains audiocassettes, compact discs, sound tape reels and holds the audio of formal oral history interviews conducted and collected by Floyd Levin from roughly the 1950s to the early 2000s. Also found within this series are music recordings and informal interviews conducted by Floyd Levin at events such as jazz artists' birthdays and funerals and at other various events. The materials in each subseries are arranged in rough alphabetical order by the artist's last name.

Subseries 10.1: Audiocassettes, 1970-1997, undated

This subseries contains audiocassette recordings of music, oral history interviews, and informal interviews conducted and collected by Floyd Levin at various events such as birthday parties, funerals and performances. It is the largest subseries within the series. Featured artists include Louis Armstrong, "Barney" (Albany Leon) Bigard, "Wild" Bill Davison and his wife, Anne Stewart Davison, Jane Jarvis, "Rosy" (James) McHargue, Lyle "Spud" Murphy, and Spiegle Willcox, among others. Many of the interviews collected by Floyd Levin were first recorded from radio broadcasts such as the BBC. The large majority of the materials were first recorded from the early 1920s to the late 1990s and are arranged in rough alphabetical order by artist last name.
