Administrative Information

Acquisition Information

The collection was donated by George N. Cahill to the Archives Center, National Museum of American History, Smithsonian Institution in 2019.

Provenance

Henry "Buddy" Graf, ". . . purchased the bulk of the collection around 1990 from Jess Mack, an old-time vaudeville actor, comedian and booking agent, who had acquired the materials over the course of his career (1940s-1980s) from earlier (1910s-1940s) vaudeville comedians such as Gus Flaig, Billy Foster, Leo Stevens, and Isadore Hirst. Graf added a limited amount of material to the collection before he died in 2000. In 2002, his widow Carol asked a close friend, George Cahill (George N. Cahill, III, actor), to contact NMAH with an offer to donate the collection. The collection was examined in Florida in August 2002 but the donation never happened. In 2003, Carol Graf moved from St. Petersburg to Miami, leaving the collection in Cahill's storage unit with the verbal understanding that he eventually would help her place the collection with some repository." NMAH Collections Committee Memorandum, 2019 May 21.

Biographical / Historical

Henry Arnold "Buddy" Graf was born 1929 August 30 in Chicago, Illinois at the Norwegian-American Hospital to Henry A. Graf and Evelyn Warner. His father was an electrician at the time of Graf's birth but Graf claimed he grew up in the theatre. As a child in vaudeville he played with the children of some of the vaudeville families such as Donald O'Connor and Sammy David, Jr. He received formal schooling up to the tenth grade.

Graf served in the United States Air Force from January 1949 to October 1952. He was stationed at Sheppard AFB, Texas and then later at Chanute AFB, Illinois. He served as a "Basic Airman" with a mechanic and engineering specialty, and received a Good Conduct Medal. The most significant assignment during his enlistment was with the 9th Periodic Maintenance Squadron. He was discharged at Travis AFB, California in 1952.

In later life he became a comic, writer, and producer, his style being primarily burlesque with a touch of vaudeville.

Graf met his wife, Carol, in St. Louis, Missouri. A program biography from the 1980s states, "Buddy started his career in show business when he was seven years old. His father put his name on the callboard and he was in business running errands for the acts that appeared at the Stratford Theatre in Chicago, Illinois. Buddy's father was the stage manager, Bob Hope was the Master of Ceremonies. His playmates were Donald O'Conner and Sammy David, Jr. They became friends while they and their families were playing at the Stratford. As time went on Buddy gained experience from the management side of show business as well as the technical and artistic side, the latter as a scene comic. Buddy soon became involved with the rebirth of vaudeville with his own creation, "Giggles Galore". The show ran for five years and did over 2000 performances. He was with Will B. Able's 'Baggy Pants and Company', and performed with 'The Best of Burlesque'. In 1990, he completed a six year run at the Goodtimes Theatre at Bearcreek Farms in Indiana, where he starred in 22 new productions and over 2500 performances. Buddy's wife Carol is the business manager for Monkey Biz Productions, and she is the technical director for the show. Buddy and Carol invite you to let your hair down, forget your problems, and let's have some fun the old fashioned way . . . with 'Monkey Business'.

Graf suffered a heart attack on stage but survived after being fitted with a pacemaker, leading him to dub himself the "Bionic Comic." Graf died on 2000 August 20 and was buried in Valhalla Cemetery, St. Louis County, Missouri. Carol died 2013 May 20 and is buried beside her husband in Valhalla. Their shared gravemarker reads, "And in my final moment, may I hear You whisper: 'When you made My people smile, you made Me smile.'"

Scope and Contents

Collection provides a comprehensive overview of vaudeville and burlesque performance material rather than documenting individual acts or performers. The materials were collected by Henry "Buddy" Arnold Graf Jr. and primarily include original scripts for comedic skits and sketches not only written by Graf but by other performers and writers.

The collection documents the career of Henry "Buddy" Graf, an actor, producer, director, and business manager. Graf wrote a sizeable amount of his own material but also pulled from the collected scripts of other vaudeville and burlesque comics. Graf and his company performed mostly in Florida and the mid-west and had a long term performing relationship with Bearcreek Farms in Indiana. Graf's material is a window into the non-professional world of theater (non-union) in the late 20th century.

The scripts in this collection collected by Graf and George Cahill were created and performed by early vaudeville and burlesque actors, writers, and booking agents including Gus Flaig, Billy Foster, Leo Stevens, and Izzy Hirst, and others. The scripts date from 1844 with the bulk of scripts being written and performed from the 1910s through the 1940s. The material was performed in venues across the United States.

Graf also collected a sizeable amount of scripts by vaudeville actor and booking agent Jess Mack dating from the 1940s-1980s. Many of the scripts were written on whatever material was available, such as hotel stationery, scraps of paper, or in notebooks, documenting the creative and constantly changing nature of the life of a travelling vaudevillian and changes in performance from venue to venue, year to year.

Each foldered script may include plot synopses, written dialogue, cues for movement, alternate versions, lists of props, copies of song sheets, and musical scores. Many are bound in hand-stitched volumes. The format of the volumes varies because they were the personal copies of different actors and agents. Some volumes are indexed by title while others are indexed by topic.

Additional material includes joke files, promotional materials, photographs, and press clippings. The collection is arranged into thirty-two series; each series is keyed to the collector of the scripts and materials in that series. These collectors may have also been the writers, actors, or producers of the scripts in their series.

"This is a collection of approximately twenty-four (24) cubic feet of vaudeville materials. About 90% of it consists of original scripts for a wide variety of comedic skits and sketches. Additional material includes joke files, promotional materials, photographs, and press clippings. The scripts were created by early (1910s-1940s) vaudeville actors and booking agents such as Gus Flaig, Billy Foster, Leo Stevens, and Izzy Hirst; additional scripts were added by vaudeville actor and booking agent Jess Mack (1940s-1980s). Like more "respectable" plays -- and despite their relatively short length -- vaudeville skits and sketches had titles, like "The Presentation Scene," which were very familiar to performers and theatergoers alike. Most of the scripts in this collection have been bound into hand-made volumes. These are rare, ephemeral items, reflecting the creative and constantly-changing nature of the performances -- many scripts were written on whatever material was available, such as hotel stationery, and some volumes are hand-stitched together. Each script includes all of its elements -- plot synopses, written dialogue, cues for movement, alternate versions, lists of props, copies of song sheets and musical scores, and so on. The format of the volumes varies because these were the personal copies of a number of different actors and agents. Some volumes are indexed by title, for example, and some are indexed by topic, such as "animals," "flirtation," "golf," and so on. Non-script material includes joke books, "A Complete List of Scenes and Black-outs," and an unknown amount of photos, clippings, and promotional materials.

Subseries 1: Scripts, 1844-2000, undated

Scope and Contents: These files contain scripts with some files containing assorted materials such as revisions, random business materials, notes, and production notes. The majority of the files do only contain a script matching the title. Revised or rewritten scripts will often appear under different titles. Some scripts are noted as being specifically written for a particular venue and range from the vaudeville style to the more risque burlesque, and some are noted as having never been performed. This subseries is arranged alphabetically by script title.

Series 4: Binder, F.F. (Fred "Falls"), undated

Biographical / Historical: Fred "Falls" Binder was a burlesque actor and comedian active from at least 1917 to 1936. He is often described as "a Hebrew comedian," "impersonator of Jewish wit," or "the musical Hebrew." A sometime headliner, Binder played the mid-west to the east coast. The Washington Herald newspaper, Washington, DC, of February 16, 1919 hails Binder as, "a newcomer in burlesque, is the featured star in the 'Girls from the Follies' which opens a week's engagement at the Lyceum Theater this afternoon. Binder heads a cast of forty entertainers who will present two burlettas and numerous vaudeville specialties." The Monitor newspaper from Omaha, Nebraska from April 15, 1927, describes Binder as, "He is well known as the little Hebrew with the nervous hands and feet, and his work is characterized by individuality." He was described as the "chief laugh provider" during a gig in Washington, D.C. in December 1921. Often he was listed directly under the show title in advertisements. He played often in Washington, D.C.

Scope and Contents: This series contains scripts attributed to Fred "Falls" Binder actor and comedian. Materials are arranged alphabetically by title.

Series 12: Flaig, Gus and Beall, Howard C., undated

Scope and Contents: The scripts in this series are credited to both Gus Flaig and Howard Beall. Materials are arranged alphabetically by title.

Biographical / Historical: Howard C. Beall was born circa 1867. He was a partner of Gus Flaig and father of Flaig's first wife Hattie. Beall was also a strongman in a circus before becoming an actor. Beall died February 27, 1925 and is buried in the Westminster Cemetery, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania.

Gus Flaig was born March 4, 1887. He was a comedian and producer on the Hirst burlesque circuit as well as stage manager of the Gayety Theater, "Home of Progressive Burlesque" in Baltimore, Maryland. Married first Hattie Louise Beall, daughter of his partner Howard C. Beall in 1915. Second wife was a dancer known as Dorothy [Dottie] Bell. After the closing of the Gayety in 1949 Flaig worked on television scripts. Flaig died on September 29, 1953.

Series 13: Flaig, Gus, 1921-1954, undated

Scope and Contents: This series contains scripts credited to Gus Flaig solely or labeled "Property of Gus Flaig". The bulk of the scripts are for burlesque skits or shows; a few may have been mounted for vaudeville houses. Some scripts are complete scripts for a full show while most of these are scripts for "bits" or what would commonly be referred to in the modern day as skits. Some are labeled as scenes. A few of these scripts have set design plats and prop listings on the cover page. Most of the scripts have the cast breakdown. There are also notebooks, notes, and music in this series. Scripts are arranged alphabetically by title.

Biographical / Historical: Gus Flaig was born March 4, 1887. He was a comedian and producer on the Hirst burlesque circuit as well as stage manager of the Gayety Theater, "Home of Progressive Burlesque" in Baltimore, Maryland. Series 14: Foster, Billy, 1929, undated

Biographical / Historical: Billy Foster was born in approximately 1887. A burlesque comedian, Foster worked as a postal clerk before going on stage around 1912. He worked for the Columbia Wheel Circuit with partner Frank Harcourt in Joe Hurtig's "Bowery Burlesquers". There is an archival collection at University of Pittsburgh, "Ralph G. Allen Burlesque Collection." Series 2 contains audio recordings of burlesque performances of Billy Hagan, Frank X. Silk, Lou Browne, Floyd Hallicy and interviews with Billy Hagan, Billy Foster, Irving Harman, and Jack Coyle. Ralph Allen in his "Best Burlesque Sketches" says Billy Foster made his debut in 1912 and was still working in 1965 at the age of almost 90. Foster died circa 1967.

Scope and Contents: This series is divided into two subseries. Subseries 1, Scripts contains scripts, bound scripts that were written and/or performed by Billy Foster. Subseries 2, Music contains musical material. Materials are arranged alphabetically by title.

Series 16: Hayes, Jack, 1928, undated

Biographical / Historical: Jack Hayes was born circa 1900. He possibly immigrated from Australia. Active in 1920s and 1930s in burlesque comedies, he described himself as a "burlesque comic". Hayes began his career around 1918 and was on the stage for thirty years. By 1972, he was a doorman and weekend performer at the National Burlesk [sic] in Detroit, Michigan. In an article from the Detroit Free Press dated 1974 May 29 Hayes described his working style with former partner William Hayes (no relation), "We'd go in to get a cup of coffee and we'd knock out a routine like 'The Tailor Shop' or 'Another One' in 10 minutes." Hayes died circa 1974.

A biographical sketch, undated. "Half Century for Hayes"

"Veteran's Day was also the 50th Jubilee for Jack (Check) Hayes in Show Biz. A back-stage garden party was held at the Old Rivoli Theater where Jack welcomed a host of show folk, musicians and People of the Press.

This show house is local outlet for refined cuticle capers, and has been catering to the Girl Watching Clientele since before the sinking of the Titanic.

Hayes, one of the few Burly-Q craftsmen still punching the time clock in the trade, shuns the idea of makeup and baggy pantaloons! A white sport coat and a checkerboard bit of millinery, plus his usual jaunty street duds and Actor Hayes is ready to face the mob! Nor does this former Shakespearian resort to quaint dialects for getting giggles from the ticket-stub holders! Australian by birth, his slight Limey accent makes him sound like a poor man's version of the late Charles Laughton. His scrapbook is a conglomeration of Vaud, Clubs, Tab, Legit, Wireless, Flickers, and Telly Vision. This volume starts at the start and ends in the middle because Old Jack has several thousand performances to go before he takes up basket weaving.

Leaving his native land and home of the kangaroo, he arrived in the States some 36 years ago. With the exception of the year that he managed a suds-station during the Viscious Volsted Era, Hayes has been amusing the patrons of the Lively Arts in flesh houses from Seattle to Miami and from Los Angeles to Boston's Old Howard.

As a one-time choir boy who go booted out for being habitually out of tune, he alone went on to sing for cash.

Prior to being a Burly-Q Thespian, Hayes played Radio-Keith-Orpheum Time as a single billed 'The Mahatma of the Harmonica'.

Festivity was strictly an invitational affair and started when final curtain banged down at finish of late show. Both hands of clock were skyward when guests bee-lined it for back stage. With enough and to spare amounts of refresemments, both solid and fluid, all present had a real clambake. Gray-haired folks seemed to be in the majority and many yarns of the 'Good Old Days' were heard. Highlight of evening was toast to Hayes, proposed by versatile actor Billy King. Only youngsters present were strippers from current cast. These kids swarmed around the victuals, and displayed a complete lack of calorie caution.

Conversation drifted to by-gone decades at Rivoli, once known as The Oak, where Hebe Comic Monty Carter and his musical tab played for many years. Later in the 20's and 30's the Al Franks Musi-Girl Revue brought the dough to box-office when house name was State. Jess Mack straight-manned and produced here for a while after Commissioner Moss closed down Forty Second St. in Big Town in early depression days. Funnyman Charley Pritcher worked here during 40's.

This 'Variety Mug' had long confab with retired performer Jack Romig on how to revive one hundred weeks of two-a-day.

3:00 A.M. found us all hiking for home.

Series 19: Hirst, Isadore, 1927-1928, undated

Biographical / Historical: Isadore Hirst was born September 5, 1897. He was the owner and manager of three burlesque theaters in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, the Bijou, the Trocadero (his flagship theater), and the Walnut Street Theater. He was also manager of the I. Hirst Circuit which was a chain of thirty-five burlesque houses in the East and Midwest. (A circuit or wheel was an association of theater owners all using on a rotating basis the same schedule of shows.) "(Issy or Izzy) Hirst was already turning out burlesque shows on the Columbia by 1923, one half of the Howard and Hirst producing team. After his initial purchase of the Trocadero and the Gayety Theaters in Philadelphia, he began the more formal organization, the Independent Burlesque Circuit, incorporated as the Independent Burlesque Association (or I.B.A.), but mostly referred to as the Hirst Circuit by performers and producers. . . . Hirst died in 1948 but the circuit survived for another half a decade, under the direction of his widow [Betty Palmer] through the mid-1950s." Hirst died December 28, 1948.

Series 24: Mack, Jess, 1937-1969, undated

Biographical / Historical: Jess Mack was born May 14, 1905. He was a booking agent and comedy writer. The Jess Mack Papers at the University of Nevada at Las Vegas document the professional life of burlesque agent and comedy writer Jess Mack from 1916 to 1988 in Las Vegas, Nevada. In addition to contracts, correspondence, engagements, and newspaper articles, the collection contains five boxes of jokes, scripts and scenes used in various burlesque productions. Other material includes photographs of entertainers and burlesque stars, joke booklets, and issues of Mack's magazine, Cavalcade of Burlesque, dating from 1951 to 1954.

"Jess Mack, born in Baltimore, Maryland on May 14, 1905, was an actor for 30 years, and a producer, comedy writer, and agent for 35 years in Las Vegas, Nevada. Mack wrote for comedians including Phil Silvers, Rags Ragland, Red Buttons, Charlie Kemper, Phyllis Diller, and Rip Taylor. He also wrote comedy lines and sketches for Abbott and Costello, Jackie Gleason, George White's Scandals and Minsky's Follies. Mack was also the writer and publisher of the Cavalcade of Burlesque magazine. As an agent, Mack represented a number of prominent striptease dancers. "Mack first appeared in a comedy act in Las Vegas in 1944 with Charles Kemper at the El Rancho Vegas Hotel and Casino. He made two trips to the South Pacific with the United Service Organizations (1945 and 1946). Mack continued to work and travel until 1969 when he moved to Las Vegas permanently and opened the Jess Mack Theatrical Agency. His 35 years as an agent culminated on June 24, 1990 when the Screen Actors Guild (SAG) presented him with the Outstanding Achievement Award for being the first franchised SAG agent in Las Vegas, Nevada." He died October 29, 1990.
