Descriptive Entry

This accession consists of a website and blog maintained by the Department of Botany.

The departmental website, crawled August 22, 2013, includes information on research projects, collections, staff, and fellowships; a bibliography of staff publications; botanical photographs and illustrations; the monthly "Biological Conservation Newsletter," produced by the Department of Botany; and references and tools for botanists. Detailed collection information is not included in this accession.

"The Plant Press" blog, crawled September 16, 2013, is an additional platform for the content found in the quarterly printed newsletter of the same name. The newsletter is jointly produced by the Department of Botany and the United States National Herbarium. It provides information about staff research, visitors, new publications, and plant conservation highlights. The blog has been back-populated with content beginning with the January 1998 issue.

Materials are in electronic format.
