Descriptive Entry

This accession consists of the "Design Other 90 Network" website as it existed on December 22, 2014. The website accompanies "Design with the Other 90%: CITIES," the second in a series of traveling exhibitions originated by the Cooper-Hewitt, National Design Museum (renamed the Cooper Hewitt, Smithsonian Design Museum in 2014) that demonstrate how design can be a dynamic force in transforming and, in many cases, saving lives. The website includes information about the exhibition as well as solutions being implemented to address many of the issues explored in the exhibition. The website also includes a blog that was active from June 2011 through February 2012 and discussion boards. Password-protected content is not included in this accession. Materials are in electronic format.
