Descriptive Entry

This accession consists of Foursquare pages associated with the Smithsonian Institution. Foursquare is a location sharing service that allows page owners and users to share information and tips about a venue. Pages include museums, theaters, cafes, and even a few exhibitions. Some pages were established and are maintained by Smithsonian Institution staff while others were established by users or vendors. Each of the pages was crawled between February and April 2015, but may document activity back to the beginning of the account. Not all features of the pages function properly in this accession and most of the user-submitted images were not captured. Materials are in electronic format.
