Descriptive Entry

This accession consists of the Marine Global Earth Observatories (MarineGEO) and Tennenbaum Marine Observatories Network (TMON) website as it existed on April 11, 2016. MarineGEO, directed by the Smithsonian Institution's TMON, is the first long-term, worldwide research program to focus on understanding coastal marine life and its role in maintaining resilient ecosystems around the world. The website, which was crawled twice on the same day, includes information about the project and its research and study sites. Materials are in electronic format.
