Descriptive Entry

This accession consists of one website and one blog maintained by the Smithsonian Environmental Research Center (SERC).

The primary SERC website was crawled on October 25, 2016, shortly after it was redesigned. It includes information about SERC's mission, facilities, research, and school and public programs. It also includes press releases and other resources for the media. Due to technical issues, some web content may be missing from this accession.

The "Shorelines: Life and Science at the Smithsonian Environmental Research Center" blog was also crawled on October 25, 2016. The blog focuses on environmental science and related issues as well as the work of SERC scientists. The first post to the blog was in October 2009. Due to technical issues, images may not display properly in this accession.

Materials are in electronic format.
