Descriptive Entry

This accession consists of a section of the Smithsonian Institution website dedicated to the Pan-Smithsonian Cryo-Initiative as it existed on November 2, 2016. The Pan-Smithsonian Cryo-Initiative is a network of Smithsonian Institution biodiversity repositories and collections that advances biospecimen research through management of frozen biomaterials and cryo-collections. The website includes information about the Initiative and provides links to biorepository, frozen collection, and related research information available on other Smithsonian Institution websites. Materials are in electronic format.
