Smithsonian Institution Archives, Accession 18-190, National Museum of Natural History, Website Records

Descriptive Entry

This accession consists of the "Ocean Portal" website as it existed on April 17, 2017. The "Ocean Portal" website is a unique, interactive online experience that inspires awareness, understanding, and stewardship of the world's oceans. Content includes topical information, lesson plans, stories, and images. It also serves as a portal to ocean-related content from other organizations. In addition, a blog, crawled separately on the same day, is embedded in the website. The blog was launched in 2009. Due to technical issues, some multimedia features may not function as expected. Materials are in electronic format.
