Smithsonian Institution Archives, Accession 19-174, Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute, Website Records

Descriptive Entry

This accession consists of the Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute's (STRI) Forest Global Earth Observatory (ForestGEO) website as it existed on February 28, 2018, and again on April 19, 2018, shortly after it was redesigned. ForestGEO is a multi-institutional program that builds on and expands STRI's global network of forest plots, transforming it into a platform for a broader range of scientific investigations. The website includes information about the forest plots, research programs, and data protocols. The data itself is not included in this accession. Due to technical issues, some aspects of the website do not function as expected. Materials are in electronic format.
