Descriptive Entry

This accession consists of two websites maintained by the National Museum of Natural History, Smithsonian Marine Station at Fort Pierce, as they existed on November 28, 2018. Shortly after they were crawled, both websites were taken offline and their content was incorporated into the National Museum of Natural History website.

The Smithsonian Marine Station at Fort Pierce website includes information about education, outreach, research, fellowships, events, and its ecosystems exhibit. The Smithsonian Marine Station is a facility of the National Museum of Natural History in Fort Pierce, Florida.

The Caribbean Coral Reef Ecosystems Program website includes information about the program, its projects, and its Carrie Bow Cay Field Station in Belize as well as information for visiting scientists. The program is administered by the Smithsonian Marine Station at Fort Pierce.

This accession also includes server files for both websites.

Materials are in electronic format.
