Smithsonian Institution Archives, Accession 20-171, National Museum of Natural History, Website Records

Descriptive Entry

This accession consists of the "Osteoware: Standardized Skeletal Documentation Software" website as it existed on March 19, 2019. The website, much of which was developed by the National Museum of Natural History, Repatriation Osteology Lab, allows users to download the free software. It also includes a history of the software, a user forum, user manuals, and software documentation. The software download, as captured by the web crawler, may be incomplete or may not function as expected. Materials are in electronic format.
