Smithsonian Institution Archives, Accession 20-174, National Museum of Natural History, Website Records

Descriptive Entry

This accession consists of the "National Ethnobotanical Herbarium Online" website as it existed on December 12, 2018, shortly before it was taken offline. The website was a joint project of the Department of Botany and the Department of Anthropology, and allowed researchers to find botanical, cultural, and linguistic data for plants contained in the United States National Herbarium housed at the National Museum of Natural History. The website was available in English, Spanish, and Zapotec. Due to technical issues, the search functionality is unavailable in this accession, but data can be browsed. Materials are in electronic format.
