Administrative Information

Preferred Citation

Smithsonian Institution Archives, Accession 21-058, National Museum of Natural History, Website Records

---

Descriptive Entry

This accession consists of a subsite of the National Museum of Natural History website as well as a stand-alone website, both maintained by the Department of Mineral Sciences.

The Hope Diamond subsite, crawled on April 6, 2020, provides a historical timeline and images of the Hope Diamond.

The Global Volcanism Program website was crawled on January 9, 2020. This program within the Department of Mineral Sciences seeks to document, understand, and disseminate information about global volcanic activity. The website includes volcano activity reports, information about individual volcanoes, and a gallery of volcano types. This accession does not include most data found on the website.

Materials are in electronic format.
