Historical Note

The History of Science Society (HSS) was established in 1924 to ensure the future of Isis, the international journal founded by George Sarton in 1912. The purpose of HSS is to promote interest in the history of science, to provide a forum for discussion, and to encourage original research in the field. The Society meets these goals by holding annual meetings and other programs; by issuing Isis, Osiris, and other publications; by awarding prizes and medals for exceptional contributions to the field; and by cooperation with other professional groups. HSS is governed by a council consisting of the officers of the Society: a president, vice-president, executive secretary, treasurer, and editor of Isis; the ex-presidents of the Society; and fifteen additional members elected from and by membership of the Society.

Introduction

This finding aid was digitized with funds generously provided by the Smithsonian Institution Women's Committee.

Descriptive Entry

These records provide partial documentation of the history of HSS, circa 1930-1993. They consist mostly of records maintained by HSS officers which concern annual meetings; membership; the work of HSS committees; the HSS Council; the publication of Isis, Osiris, and other HSS publications; elections of officers; HSS relations with other professional societies; financial matters; and prizes and awards granted by HSS. Also included are records concerning an HSS fundraising campaign started in 1983; files of the HSS Committee on Independent Scholars, 1986-1989; file of Nathan Reingold as chairman of the Conference on Science Manuscripts, 1960, which was co-sponsored by HSS; and copies of the HSS Newsletter.

Fund Drive Campaign: In early 1983, the History of Science Society launched an unprecedented fund campaign to increase its endowment and income. Led by Gerald Holton, the Society's president in 1982 and 1983, the campaign sought support from foundations, individual donors, and a newly formed "Council of Friends of the History of Science." These files document Gerald Holton's early efforts in the fund campaign, and subsequent Fund Drive initiatives of Michael Sokal. They include incoming and outgoing correspondence from the offices of Gerald Holton and Michael Sokal, including the initial National Endowment of the Humanities Grant Application, lists of foundations and donors (both corporate and private), information about how the Fund Drive was executed, and other general forms. Also included are individual donation pledges, form letters, and thank-you letters sent to and from Bruce Lewenstein, staff member in the History of Science Society Publications Office in Philadelphia. The files are arranged alphabetically.

Individuals: These files may be described in three general categories. Some files reflect individuals who gave large donations to the History of Science Society. Others list contact persons for foundations and corporations. Still others contain correspondence with important individuals within the History of Science Society itself whose incoming and outgoing correspondence relating to funded activities warranted an individual file. The files are arranged alphabetically.
